SHERMAN'S MARCH.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT NEWS

OUR ARMY NEAR SAVANNAH.

The Rebels are Reticent No Longer.

Important Admissions from the Richmond Papers.

Savannah Probably Reached Yesterday.

Sherman Fills His Trains with Provisions.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Dec. 9.

By the arrival of the mailboat from City Point, we learn that in the rebel lines it was reported on Wednesday evening that SHERMAN's advance was within six miles of Savannah. At this point he had halted and was awaiting the arrival of certain portions of his command which had been sent in different directions for the purpose of misleading the enemy. Deserters who gave this information also state that there is great dissatisfaction in the rebel ranks because correct information of SHERMAN's movements is withheld from them. Especially is this so among the Georgia troops. They also report that many of our prisoners have escaped from their confinement and joined SHERMAN. It was also evident from the conversation of these deserters that LEE had detached troops from his army and sent them to Georgia to assist in arresting SHERMAN's advance. It is not too great an inference to draw from the above facts that ere this SHERMAN has thundered at the gates of Savannah, and most probably with success. Up to a late hour this evening, the Government had no later advices from him than those contained in the Richmond papers of Wednesday. News of his arrival on the coast is, however, daily expected by our authorities.

NEWS FROM REBEL SOURCES.

Special Dispatch to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Dec. 9.

The Richmond papers of the 7th, received here at the office of the Philadelphia Inquirer, contain the following important items from Georgia:

From the Richmond Enquirer, Dec. 7.

The military situation is culminating—is becoming intensely, and to this part of the Confederacy, vitally interesting. The advance of SHERMAN's army, since he crossed the Oconee, has been slow and cautious, his intention evidently being to mystify our military authorities, but the delay and slow movement has been to gather in supplies of forage, contracted as his territory is becoming from the movements of WHEELER's cavalry. SHERMAN has not for a moment hesitated in our humble judgment as to the point to be attacked, or the road to take. If our readers will take the map, and notice the positions, they will find it very interesting. From Fen's Bridge, on the main branch of the Ogeechee River, where SHERMAN crossed to Louisville, where the main body of his army is now supposed to rest, is fifteen miles; and from Louisville to Millen, it is thirty miles. Now we make up this campaign for him as the most reasonable, the most feasible, if he hopes to accomplish anything, and the most natural one: When his forage and provision trains are full, he will mass his entire force at Millen, throwing his cavalry to the rear. With his wagon-train between the two wings of his army, he will move in compact columns, steadily, but cautiously, on the City of Savannah, with no fear of an attack on either flank. The Ogeechee and its few crossings and terrible swamps on his right, and the Savannah River and its equally swampy banks on his left, both flanks will be most securely covered—a grand desideratum in army movements. And thus situated, he has a march of something over 80 miles to Savannah. SHERMAN left Atlanta on the 12th of November, and reaching Millen on the 2d of December, he has traveled 165 miles in twenty days—an average of eight miles per day. Traveling at the same rate, he would reach Savannah on the 9th inst., or if he goes to Darien, may be expected there about the 15th, provided he meets with no delays by the way.

[SHERMAN did not leave Atlanta until Nov. 14—his last column on the 15th.—ED. TIMES.]

From the Richmond Examiner, Dec. 7.

The military drama in Georgia is drawing rapidly to its denouement. Gen. SHERMAN is at last approaching the coast, whither he has been traveling twenty-three days. Whether he will complete the journey or not depends very much upon certain events which will occur this week. There are troops in his front who will resolutely dispute his further advance toward Savannah or Darien, after he passes a certain point.

It is reported that his advance was skirmishing, yesterday, with our outposts. We do not know what SHERMAN will do when he finds a formidable force in his front, but are disposed to believe that he will discard strategy and attempt to break through the lines of his opposers. Let him do what he will, he will certainly feel that never was General in a more critical situation.

From the Richmond Whig, Dec. 7.

The Augusta Constitutionalist of the 3d inst. says that just before going to press, it was informed that the enemy's main body had passed Millen, en route for the coast or destruction. In a paragraph previously written, it says: "SHERMAN, from all reliable sources, seems to have halted recently, in order to grind corn. As he tend towards the barren countries of the South, it became necessary to make the proper provision. His foraging parties are constantly driven in by our cavalry, and compelled to hug the main body. His forage is reported to be short."

ATLANTA.

From the Macon Confederate.

We learn that an order has been issued to repair the railroad and telegraph line to Atlanta at once. Many of the citizens of this deserted city are returning to their homes, and it is to be hoped not soon to leave them. It is impossible to ascertain the exact amount of damage done to this city by the Federals when leaving it, but the prevailing opinion seems to be, that nothing but public property was destroyed, and that private residences are still standing.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Dec. 9.

OUR EXCHANGED PRISONERS.

Up to the present time five thousand of our prisoners paroled at Savannah have arrived at Annapolis, all of whom have been mustered and are now receiving their back pay. SHERMAN's movements have evidently interfered with the exchange, as there have been no arrivals at Annapolis since Monday last of any boats with prisoners from Savannah.

ENLISTMENTS FOR GEN. HANCOCK'S CORPS.

Enlistments in Gen. HANCOCK's corps are progressing very favorably. Large numbers of letters from veterans in all parts of the country, seeking information, are daily received, and the indications are that in a short time the corps will receive its full complement of men.

THE TRIAL OF COL. NORTH.

Owing to the delay in procuring the depositions of some thirty witnesses in New-York, the trial of Col. NORTH has been postponed till the 20th of the present month.

NEW RANK IN THE NAVY.

The rank of Vice-Admiral in the navy will undoubtedly be created during this session of Congress. This will be a rank in the navy corresponding with that of Lieutenant-General in the army. Rear-Admiral DAVID G. FARRAGUT is most favorably spoken of for the position.

CASHIERED.

First Lieut. F. A. YOUNG, of the Twentieth Veteran Corps, and First Lieut. A. W. WHITE, of the Union Light Guard, have been cashiered, the former for drunkenness on duty, and the latter for breaking arrest.

Dispatches to the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Dec. 9.

ANOTHER BLOCKADE-RUNNER GONE.

Rear-Admiral PORTER, writing to the Navy Department from on board his flagship Malvern, off Norfolk, Va., under date of Dec. 7, reports that on the morning of the 3d inst., the United States steamer Emma drove a large two smoke-stack steamer on shore, off the entrance to Cape Fear River. The blockade-runner was afterward destroyed by the guns of a portion of the fleet at that point.

COL. NORTH'S TRIAL POSTPONED.

The trial of Col. NORTH, New-York Military State Agent, is further postponed till the 20th December, at the instance of the Government's counsel.

THE WAR REPORT.

The report of the Secretary of War is not yet ready for transmission to Congress.

THE HOUSE COMMITTEES.

The Standing Committees of the House of Representatives, appointed at the first session, continues throughout the Congress.

SNOW IN WASHINGTON.

There was a slight fall of snow here to-night, commencing at 8 o'clock.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC

An Important Movement on Foot.

The Second and Fifth Corps March on Stony Creek.

THE TROOPS IN HIGH SPIRITS.

PHILADELPHIA, Friday, Dec. 9.

The Press has a special from City Point, Dec. 8, stating that the Second and Fifth Corps massed on Tuesday afternoon and night near Jerusalem Plank-road, and on Wednesday morning marched toward Stony Creek station. Our troops are very enthusiastic. Our main army having been fully reinforced recently, the advance of the corps does not weaken it.

The Affair at Stony Creek—Extracts from the Petersburgh Papers—Extracts from Private Letters.

From our Own Correspondent.

CITY POINT, Va., Saturday, Dec. 3, 1864.

The brilliant little affair at Stony Creek, on Thursday last, the details of which will have been sent you by your correspondent at the front, has put me in possession of three captured letters and a Petersburgh Express of a later date, from which I am permitted to make some very interesting and significant extracts, directly bearing upon military affairs in Richmond and Petersburgh.

In the local column of the Express occurs the following passage:

STILL LEAVING.—Young men, residents of Petersburgh, who have thrived upon the wants of the community, are still leaving us and making their way to the Yankee lines. The exit must be an easy one, that so many should make their escape and so few be caught. There are evidently ample means furnished them through Sussex County, as we have undoubted reason for believing that most of them take that route. Cannot this injurious practice be prevented, at least to some measure? Do not the interests of the country suffer largely by it? Information is certainly carried to the enemy, of the condition and numbers of our army; for a man who runs away in this secret and underground manner is not too good to give a parting kick to the ship he deserts.

Stung by the demoralization which it is thus forced to blazon in its own columns, the Express treats us to the following editorial homily on the bitter subject:

GOING TO THE YANKEES.—Such, says the Richmond Evening Courier, is the caption of an almost daily article in the city journals. Persons attempting to escape are arrested and lodged in Castle Thunder, to await a military trial. The Courier adds: "It has long been our conviction that it would redound to the interest of the country were all disaffected persons, desirous of rushing to the arms of the Yankees, allowed a month or six weeks to leave, and those who did not do so within that time, and were caught attempting to force the lines, dealt with in a summary manner. The disaffected will never make good soldiers, but assist to demoralize the army, and desert on the first opportunity. Such nuisances are better out of than in the Confederacy. A thousand willing, patriotic men are worth a hecatomb of discontented and—as the phrase goes—'disloyal spirits.'"

This is a very fair and wise proposition, but the only difficulty is, that the rebel authorities would never dare to put it into execution. Only let JEFF. DAVIS call his people, in and out of the ranks, around him to-morrow, assure them that all those who have no stomach for fighting, or who are tired of it, may lay down their arms and clear out to the Yankees, with their families; that there will be no cruel reprisals against them, nor willful destruction of their property, &c., and any one might safely venture a dukedom to a denier that there would not be one man out of six left in the defences of Richmond or Petersburgh twenty-four hours afterward.

Lest my assertion be deemed unreasonable, let us see how far the three aforesaid letters—the only three that came into my hands, out of a whole captured mail—allow us to get a peep behind the scenes. The sincerity of this testimony cannot be doubted, for these letters were certainly never intended for Yankee perusal; one being confidentially addressed to a brother, and the other two to ladyloves. Of course, I forbear all names and addresses, as nothing could be gained by bringing the individuals into trouble; and throw aside all matters of private interest, thinking that domestic feelings—even among the most revengeful enemies—are far too sacred to be tampered with.

The first letter is dated near Stony Creek, Nov. 29, 1864, from some member of the Fifth North Carolina Cavalry to his brother at Henderson Post-office, N. C. The writer ought to be a man of some little property, judging from the instructions he gives about it. Alluding to the war, he says:

"I have no news to communicate from camp. We are expecting a big fight here soon. To be candid with you, I am afraid the Confederate cause is about gone up, though I still have a glimmer of hope. But one thing I feel almost certain of, and that is, Slavery is done. I would not give much for a negro at this time, to buy. I want to get DICK's note paid, and then I think I can make a good trade out of him in another way."

This DICK—or DICK ORR, as he is called elsewhere—is evidently a slave of some consequence, as his name appears frequently, once as a creditor of his master, orders being given to sell some cotton to pay his note.

In another part of the same letter occurs this significant passage:

"SUSAN ORR, DICK's wife, I understand wants to live with Jo. next year, and if I thought it would be of any advantage in keeping Jo company and keeping her at home, I would consent."

Perhaps all your unsophisticated readers were not before aware that, among the many patriarchal and divine attributes belonging to slaveowners, was included the power of giving men's wives away to "live with" other men.

The second letter is also from a member of the North Carolina Cavalry, is dated Stony Creek, Nov. 30, 1864, and addressed to a young lady in North Carolina. It says:

"We have been looking for two or three days for your father to come up to see us, as we heard that he was going to be disbanded and was coming to see us before he went home. We have been anxiously looking for us to be disbanded, but all in vain. I fear, yet I hope not. We are having quite a time of it now. We have roll-calls of mornings at 3 o'clock, and get breakfast and have our horses saddled by daybreak, and be in readiness for a fight. The impression is that we shall have another big fight in a few days, and if it does not rain I am very certain we will. I want to see it rain the worst in the world. We have not had any fighting since BATTE was wounded, but I am sure we cannot rest much longer before we have one. My boys are all much disheartened at Lincoln's being reelected; they don't seem to think they can stay in the war four years more. I expect we shall have to take the bushes, but I hate to have to do that."

The third letter is evidently from a well-educated man, is dated Stony Creek, Nov. 29, 1864, and addressed to a lady in Virginia, to whom he signs himself, her "most true and devoted lover." This letter says:

"The weather continues very fine, and a general engagement is looked for every day. God grant it may never take place! I have been engaged for the last four days in surveying a railroad from this point to Petersburgh—a distance of twenty-five miles—to run in the rear of our army. The work has already commenced and will be completed by Christmas."

This last tit-bit of information is somewhat important—but who knows whether it was not to interfere with this very game that our ever-active Commanding General sent the reconnoitering force to Stony Creek, which was attended by such good success, on Thursday last?

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

Burning of Two Schooners on the James River—Precautionary Measures.

From Our Special Correspondent.

FORTRESS MONROE, Wednesday, Dec. 7, 1864.

Capt. CROPPER, of the steamer Wyoming, which vessel left City Point yesterday morning and arrived here at midnight, reports that when passing Day's Point on the James River, at about 10 P. M., he observed two schooners aground on the shoal, one of which was on fire. After proceeding on his course down the river a short time, he looked back and discovered another vessel, which he took to be the second schooner, ablaze. As the Captain had important dispatches for Admiral PORTER, which he was anxious to deliver immediately, he did not stop to ascertain the cause of the conflagration, although he was inclined to the belief that it was the work of rebels who had boarded the schooners from the shore, made prisoners of the crews, and then applied the match to the vessels.

Capt. CROPPER also reports that he saw between forty and fifty picket fires on the south bank of the river.

At the present writing the names of the schooners are not known, but fears are entertained that they may have been two of three schooners in tow of the steamer Patuxant, which left the fortress for the front early last evening. The names of the schooners in tow were the A. Cowdery, laden with coal, and the Magellan and Rawley with cargoes of hay. Should it prove that either one or two of the above-named vessels were those destroyed, it is natural to suppose that the remaining schooner, also the steamer Patuxant shared a like fate.

A steamer has been dispatched to Newport's News to gather what information may be obtained at that point.

In my dispatch of last evening I made mention of the destruction by the rebels, off Day's Point, on Monday night, of the tug Lizzie Freeman, and the schooner Zimmerman, loaded with sutler's stores. In all probability, the same party were the authors of the cowardly deed committed last night.

Admiral PORTER has been informed of the rebel presence at Day's Point, and will take such measures as to prevent molestation or attacks on our vessels in future.

The rebel thieves, marauders and vessel destroyers that infest the bank of the James at Day's Point, are perhaps what they claim themselves to be—a part of the Florida's crew.

Later.—A dispatch from an officer at Newport News, received by Quartermaster JAMES about an hour ago, conveys the impression that the steamer Patuxant, with her tow, has passed up the river in safety. Then the mystery of the burning of the vessels, as reported by the Captain of the Wyoming, is by no means solved.

Marine Disasters.

OSWEGO, Friday, Dec. 9.

The brig S. J. Harvey, bound from Milwaukie to Ogdensburgh, with a cargo of wheat, dragged her anchor and went ashore yesterday afternoon about 14 miles below this port. A terrific gale and blinding snow-storm prevailed at the time of the disaster. The captain was frozen to death in the rigging; the remainder of the crew were taken off in a boat from Port Ontario.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH.

Temporary Interruption of the Exchange of Prisoners.

Its Resumption at Charleston Determined On.

From Our Special Correspondent.

PORT ROYAL, SOUTH CAROLINA, Monday Evening, Dec. 5, 1864.

By a casual opportunity, I hasten to send a line giving the situation of affairs in this department, and what I say must be the briefest summary, as the steamer will leave here in about half an hour.

First, respecting Col. MULFORD's operations. There had been nearly a week's detention of the remaining vessels of the flag-of-truce fleet in the Savannah River, in daily expectation of receiving the remainder of our sick and wounded prisoners, when, on Thursday last, Capt. HATCH, the rebel agent of exchange, brought word to Col. MULFORD that the business must be suspended in the Savannah River, assigning the reason that SHERMAN's and FOSTER's operations had interfered with the forwarding of troops.

Col. MULFORD at once suggested Charleston Harbor, and arrangements are now perfected to resume business at that point to-morrow. Yesterday the preliminaries were perfected, and the siege of Charleston will be stopped until our released men are brought delivered.

Capt. YOUNG, of the army gunboat Mayflower, has informed me of the capture, this morning, by his vessel, of a rebel battery at Port Royal Ferry. One gun was brought off and three others spiked and rendered unserviceable. There was no loss on our side.

From SHERMAN there has been no definite news received for more than ten days. Rumors are thick, however. The last is said to be founded on the statement of a rebel lieutenant, who deserted this morning and was brought down to Hilton Head from Gen. FOSTER's expedition up Broad River. He says that, yesterday, SHERMAN's advance was within eight miles of Savannah. I do not place much credit upon this, but I know that Gen. FOSTER and everybody else here is anxiously expecting every moment to hear the sound of SHERMAN's guns.

Rebel papers are mum on the subject.

Affairs in Front of Nashville.

LOUISVILLE, Friday, Dec. 9.

The Journal's Nashville specials of the 8th, say there is no change in the general situation. Skirmishing had been going on in front of the Fourth Corps, and the enemy was driven back to his old line. But few casualties resulted.

Prisoners reported that CHEATHAM commanded the rebel right, LEE the centre, and STEWART the left. They say that LEE has four batteries of four guns each in position.

A rebel brigade had left in the direction of Murfreesboro. It is not known whether for foraging or to attack Murfreesboro.

One of our batteries on STRADMAN's front opened this morning, but elicited no reply. Gen. L. J. WOOD retains command of the Fourth Corps. Gen. COUCH takes command of a division in the Twenty-third Corps.

A dispatch dated the 9th says: "There is no change in affairs around the city."

Gen. BURBRIDGE and his command were at Bean's Station on the 6th and in good spirits. This movement of Gen. BURBRIDGE upon BRECKENRIDGE's flank has compelled the latter to withdraw his force beyond Bulls' Gay, except a small cavalry detachment. VAUGAT was reported at Chucky Bend with cavalry, and BUSHROD JOHNSON at Jonesboro', both reports are considered doubtful.

LATER.

NVSHVILLE, Tenn, Friday, Dec. 9.

The weather is bitterly cold.

There is nothing new on our front to-day, save some sharp musketry firing in front of the Fourth Corps. There were several wounded on both sides.

The gunboat fleet went down the river again to-day. No report has been received from them since their leaving, save that they engaged the enemy some thirty in number. The water on the shoals is forty-four inches deep, and is falling.

SECOND DISPATCH.

NASHVILLE, Friday, Dec. 9.

The weather is very cold. A heavy storm of snow and hail has prevailed all day.

The rebel line in our front appear intact. There are no indications of an attack, or of their running away. The excitement in town has nearly subsided. No apprehensions for the safety of the city need be felt.

The gunboats went down the river again to-day to a point where rebel batteries are located, engaged them, drove the rebels back from the river, silenced their guns and returned to the city.

Very little cannonading or skirmishing has occurred to-day. The rebels are still throwing up earthworks. A considerable defence of that character is being erected by them in front of the Fourth Corps.

Deserters who came in to-day say that HOOD's forces are soon to attack the Union troops.

The water on the shoals is four feet deep, and is rising.

Affairs in Kentucky.

LOUISVILLE, Friday, Dec. 9.

There was considerable excitement here yesterday from the arrest of gamblers and the impressment of the horses. The street cars were temporarily stopped for the want of motive power.

A gang of GENTRY's men took possession of Lagrange yesterday afternoon, injuring the railroad so as to disarrange the track for a day or two.

The Journal says it is our impression that BRECKINRIDGE will turn up in a new and unexpected quarter before long.

Affairs at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Friday, Dec. 9.

In view of the recent charges against the Department Commander here, Col. JOSEPH DARR, Jr., Assistant Paymaster of the Department of Missouri, under date of the 7th, tenders his resignation, which is accepted. Lieut. C. W. DAVIS, of the Fifty-first, is temporarily assigned to duty in the office.

The Raid on Detroit.

DETROIT, Friday, Dec. 9.

Positive information is in possession of our authorities that a rebel raid on this city is contemplated. The plot was to have culminated last night, but was frustrated by timely warning and vigilance. Large numbers of special policemen are on duty, and the City Military Companies patrolled the city during the night. At a citizens meeting today, active measures were taken for the public safety.

The Case of Burley, the Pirate.

TORONTO, Friday, Nov. 9.

BURLEY's application for a month's postponement of his trial, to get evidence from Richmond, is granted.

Weather very cold.

The Canada.

HALIFAX, Friday, Dec. 9.—8 P. M.

There are no signs of the steamer Canada. Weather fine.

MORE OF THE PACIFIC PIRATES.

Additional Captures Probable—Expense Account of the Gang.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Wednesday, Dec. 7, 1864.

The Times has already, in its account of the arrest of Commander HOGG's gang of pirates at Panama, New-Granada, noted the fact that a number of the persons engaged in the plot to capture United States mail steamships in the Pacific, had gone to ports on the west coast of Costa Rica, Salvador and Nicaragua, with the expectation of rejoining their comrades there on arrival of the vessel marked for their first prize.

I learn that the Navy Department has received dispatches from Admiral PEARSON, at Panama, announcing that he has dispatched an armed cutter from the U. S. frigate Lancaster, to Central American ports, to demand the surrender of these parties, some of whom are already reported to have been arrested by the local authorities. Of course, the demand cannot be enforced against the will of the Central American Governments, but they have suffered so much in the past from the filibusterism and the presence of restless foreigners, who stimulate and take part in political disturbances in that region, that there is reason to hope they will be only too glad to turn them over to us.

If any objection is made to that course, it will probably grow out of the fact that many of the piratical gang took out British passports before leaving Havana, and may claim and receive succor at the hands of the British authorities, as subjects of the Queen. If these authorities, however, believe there is any sincerity in the British proclamation of neutrality, and are disposed to vindicate and maintain it, their proper course certainly would be to refuse to screen from punishment men who are accused of violating that neutrality, and who have thus forfeited their right to protection. These men are nearly all known and easily identified. How many of them went to other Pacific ports than that of Panama, may be seen from the following account current, captured in the trunk of WM. BLACK, Purser of the expedition, a copy of which is on file in the Navy Department.

	24	Passage on railroad across Isthmus, for seven men, at $25	175 00
	8	Incidental expenses for self and party	113 50

From the above it will be understood that the party rendezvoused at Havana from different points at which they had been landed by blockade-runners, and that they added to their numbers seven men whom they induced to desert a steamship—probably the Liberty—by the payment of $40 each.

It further appears from the above that BRADSHAW (once an officer on a Panama Railroad steamer) and seven men proceeded direct from Batamano, Cuba, to Central America, and that one MURDOCK and five men went from Havana to Greytown, Nicaragua. Thus fourteen of the gang, in all, are supposed to be waiting their comrades at ports north of Panama. We may expect to hear something interesting in regard to them by the next arrival from Aspinwall. The fellow CLARK, who figures in the account current as the recipient of $425 for expenses from Havana to Panama, via New-York, is also spotted, having spent some time on the Isthmus engaged in initial movements for the piratical expedition, and then proceeding to San Francisco, where it is hoped he has been arrested before this in pursuance of information sent to the United States authorities there. Either his real name, or an alias by which he sometimes goes, is MANN.

Secretary WELLES is in excellent spirits over the breaking up of the piratical expedition, as well he may be, for, had it succeeded, HOGG and his men might have swept American commerce from the Pacific coast months before the department could have provided means to even embarrass their movements. It is but just to say that the chief credit of breaking up the enterprise is due to Acting-Consul SAVAGE, at Havana, who discovered the plot, and sent to our consuls on the Isthmus the information which enabled them, together with our naval authorities at Panama and officers of the Panama Railroad Company, to concert the completely successful measures taken to secure the offenders and conclusive proof of their guilt.

THE FLORIDA CASE—GEN. WEBB'S LETTER.

The steamship Hansa, on the 23d of November from Southampton, with three days' later news from Europe, arrived here yesterday morning.

The Canada, with news of the result of the Presidential election, arrived at Roaches Point Nov. 21, at 2:45 A. M.

On Sunday morning, during a heavy northwest gale and heavy sea, the Canada rescued the crew of the water-logged bark England, of Newcastle, from Quebec, timber laden. Three of her crew were washed overboard during the passage.

The Celia, from New-York, passed Deal Nov. 22.

The Hibernia arrived at Queenstown Nov. 22.

A rumor, the basis of which will be found below, had gained currency in Liverpool to the effect that the rebel pirate Sea King, Capt. SEMMES' new vessel, had been wrecked off Funchal, Madeira.

OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENCE.

The Florida—Opinions of the Press—Mr. Lincoln's Re-election.

PARIS, Friday, Nov. 18, 1864.

The abuse of the secession press in regard to the seizure of the Florida, has been suddenly stopped by an article of the Opinion Nationale, giving the reason for the seizure. Up to the moment of this explanation the rebel organs were having things all their own way, and even the papers friendly to the Union cause had, in part, taken strong grounds against the validity of the seizure. The protest of the local authorities of Bahia, the articles from the journals of that city, and the report of the officers of the Florida, were published in the Moniteur, and gave to the event such an air of authenticity as to easily lead astray those who desired to judge it impartially. The Opinion Nationale points out the cases in which the rebels violated the neutrality of the Brazilian waters, and quotes sufficiently from the correspondence which took place on the subject between the American and Brazilian authorities to show exactly where the question stands. It is shown that the Brazilian Government allows its inability to enforce the neutrality of its water-frontier; and that the American Government, in view of this fact, gave notice of its intention to take the reparation of its wrongs in its own hands. The Opinion also cites the very striking case of the Gen. Armstrong, an American vessel seized by England in Portuguese waters, and for which the American Government demanded reparation from Portugal. In this case the arbitration of NAPOLEON III. was asked, and this monarch decided the case, in 1852, against the United States.

The publication of the article of the Opinion Nationale naturally produced a sensation, for it took the public by surprise; and what was worse, it demolished whole pages of legal argument which had been spent on the subject, as well as many columns of denunciation against the "unprecedented and brutal act." The two friendly papers, the Presse and the Débats, which had characterized the act as only worthy of the age of barbarism, and counselled the immediate repudiation of the conduct of the naval officer and the Consul at Bahia, appear to have been struck dumb, for they have not referred to the subject since. The two other friendly papers, the Siècle and the Temps, have since contained leading articles, which entirely approve of the conduct of the Federal officers, and pronounce the seizure justifiable. With one exception, the secession papers have been struck as dumb as the Presse and Débats, and that exception is made by the especial organ of the rebel agents, the France. Even this paper, whose duty it is to defend the rebel cause quand même, has been almost reduced to silence, and has only attempted a defence of its side with those "glittering generalities" which betray the weakness of the cause. Thus it may be considered that on this side the question is judged, and that no serious objection will be made to the seizure. It is to be regretted, however, that on account of the relations between the Orleans family and the Government of Brazil, this family may be brought into an antagonistic position with the Government of the United States. A violent article in the Journal des Débats, the organ of this family, against the validity of this seizure, was hailed with pleasure by the Secessionists and their sympathizers as an indication of a rupture, or at least of a promise of a rupture, between the Orleans party and the Government at Washington.

The reelection of Mr. LINCOLN has been a severe blow to the rebels and their friends abroad. They pretended that it made no difference which of the two candidates was elected; but the perspective of another four years' war, which they predict, cannot be a very agreeable one. Many Secessionists were exhausting their fortunes abroad by remaining until a new man, friendly to their cause, should be elected President of the United States; many on-the-fence men were also here, professing neutrality, so as to preserve property on both sides of the line; and, finally, many Copperheads, of the class who did not wish to place themselves on record at the election, were here, and all these are terribly disappointed at the result of the election. They cannot understand how the people of the North could be so blind to the true interests of the country as to vote thus almost in a mass for Mr. LINCOLN; while we, on the other hand, cannot understand how men who were born American citizens can so far go astray in the elementary principles of patriotism. If they would only make themselves Englishmen or Frenchmen, there would be no room for surprise or indignation; but these are the very people, unfortunately, who cry their nationality on the housetops and on the corners of the streets, and who arrogate to themselves, in the presence of foreigners, the exclusive right to comprehend and expound American affairs. It is to be hoped that the overwhelming majority given to Mr. LINCOLN—the most striking and most significant event in the political history of any country—will close for a while their unnatural and libelous mouths.

The journals have not yet had time to express their opinions on the result of the election, at any length. The friendly journals are of course delighted, while the rebel press dismiss the subject with a growl of hate at the "madness of the people who have decreed by their vote another four years of useless and bloody war!" We will be able to see, in a very short time, through the columns of the Ministerial Press, what the Government people think of the maintenance of Mr. LINCOLN in power, and whether they contemplate any change of policy on that account.

Capt. MORRIS, of the Florida, is still here, and his friends say that he expects soon to have another ship. It is believed here that Capt SEMMES has gone South, and that he does not intend to go upon the ocean again.

Since writing the above, the dispatch of Col. WEBB to the Brazilian Government on the subject of the seizure of the Florida, has been published at London, probably by Mr. ADAMS, and we there see that the American Minister does not take exactly the same ground he did when the Alabama seized the Federal vessels in Brazilian waters. It would seem as if Mr. WEBB could hardly be sustained in his present position by the Government at Washington.

THE REBEL PIRATE SEA KING.

HER REPORTED LOSS OFF FUNCHAL.

From the London Star, Nov. 23.

Yesterday afternoon a notice was posted at LLOYD'S announcing the loss of the Sea King screw steamship, on the rocks near the Desert Isles, off Funchal, in the Island Madeira. This is the steamer that is believed to have been taken up for the service of Capt. SEMMES, late of the Alabama. She was a fine new vessel, built in the Clyde last year, and made one voyage to China, arriving in London two or three months since with a valuable cargo of the first of the season's teas. She cleared out from London on a voyage to, as stated, Bombay, and it is represented that the Laurel steamer was dispatched out with stores and men to meet her. The African mail steamer Calabar, which arrived in the early part of last week, had on board 36 men who had refused to serve in the Sea King, which was reported to have had her name changed to Shenandoah, and had hoisted the Confederate flag, and that Capt. SEMMES had been pointed out as the commander of the steamer. The intelligence of her loss has come from Gibraltar, a newspaper of that place announcing that the Sea King, Capt. CORBETT, had been wrecked near the Desert Isles, and that 42 of the crew had been picked up in two boats. It is thought just probable, however, that some mistake may have been made as to the picking up of the boats and the fate of the ship. The reported wreck of the steamer and the rescue of the hands may be another version of the story of the men who left and came home in the Calabar. The Sea King is stated to have been insured for upward of £30,000.

THE RE-ELECTION OF MR. LINCOLN.

GREAT BRITAIN SAFE.

From the London Times, Nov. 2.

No one who has given himself the trouble to compare the conditions under which the present election of a President for the United States is carried on with the position of affairs when the same momentous event took place four years ago, will find the least difficulty in accounting for the event we yesterday announced as almost certain—the return of Mr. LINCOLN a second time as President of the United States by a very large majority. * * * *

The question which concerns us now is not how he came to this second elevation as what influence that elevation is likely to have on our own relations with the United States. On this point we see no reason for alarm; nay, it may probably be that we are safer in the hands of Mr. Lincoln than we should be in the hands of any one else. As regards foreign States, ourselves in particular, we may reasonably believe that he has sown his wild oats; he has gone through the course of defying and insulting England, which is the traditional way of obtaining the Irish vote, and we may not unreasonably hope that he is unlikely to repeat the experiment. Ever since he found himself firmly established in his office, and the first effervescence of national feeling had begun to subside, we have had no great reason to complain of the conduct of Mr. LINCOLN toward England. His tone has been less exacting, his language has been less offensive, and, due allowance being made for the immense difficulties of his situation, we could have parted with Mr. LINCOLN, had such been the pleasure of the American people, without any vestige of ill-will or ill-feeling. He has done, as regards this country, what the necessities of his situation demanded from him, and he has done no more. A new President might possibly feel called upon for a demonstration of more hostile spirit. It is an ordeal through which all American politicians must pass, and we may deem ourselves fortunate in having to deal with one who has passed through it already.

HOW THE NEWS WAS RECEIVED IN PARIS.

Correspondence of the London Herald.

PARIS, Monday Evening, Nov. 22.

The news of Mr. LINCOLN'S reelection was so generally anticipated that it cannot be said to have created any impression in Paris. On one point alone the public here are anxious to be enlightened, and on that point the telegram supplies no information; it says nothing as to the manner in which the large minority (for 400,000 votes out of the whole Northern States—even admitting that they were not procured by such means as Mr. LINCOLN'S electioneering agents unquestionably resorted to—forms but a small number in such a number of voters) have received a decision which places their lives, their property, and their persons at the mercy of the most unscrupulous clique that has been in the possession of power since the French revolutionary era of 1793.

THE FLORIDA CASE.

GEN. WEBB'S LETTER.

From the London Times, Nov. 22.

It is fortunate for the peace of the world that the English nation is not easily moved by unseemly language, but, content with resistance to acts of wrong, allows words, however offensive, to pass by without regard. Happily, our steady resolve to abstain from interference in the affairs of an agitated continent will never be weakened by any taunts or invectives coming from Americans, however highly placed. For this reason we may regard the answer of Mr. WATSON WEBB, the United States Minister at Rio Janeiro, to the Brazilian Government in the matter of the Florida, as a matter of not the slightest political importance, and as only showing the temper in which certain men, representing the most powerful section of Americans, are accustomed to think and talk of us. The capture of the Florida in the harbor of Bahia was an outrage for which no ability could find a justification, the wrong was so gross and palpable that Mr. WEBB could not but repudiate complicity in it. He says, with great propriety, that he has heard of the affair with regret, and he takes upon himself to assure the Brazilian Government that every reparation will be offered to it that honor and justice require. But the zealous diplomatist, dreading probably the effect of these concessions on his own popularity at home, cannot stop here. He chooses to add, "more promptly and friendly than if the same act had been perpetrated in a harbor of the most powerful maritime nation in the world." Why a just and well-meaning Government should regulate its promptness and frankness in doing justice for an obvious wrong by any considerations of the relative strength of foreign Governments Mr. WEBB does not explain, for the sentence is only introduced to allow the writer to digress at once into a matter with which Brazil has nothing to do, and to give utterance to the bitterness which he feels toward the English nation.

OUR SECURITIES IN GERMANY.

From the London Times (City Article.)

The advices from Frankfort mention that United States bonds continue firm at three to four per cent. above New-York prices, as no new remittances thence can be expected in the next steamers, owing to the previous bad accounts sent out, and to the circumstance of the floating supply in the German markets having for the moment been exhausted by investments and foreign orders. "The election of LINCOLN," it is said, "would be considered favorable by our speculators, as they think it more probable that the South, or some of the Confederate States, will give in before a decided than before a vacillating will. Still many of our large capitalists and people better acquainted with American affairs think that the real miseries of American bondholders will only begin with the peace."

A telegram from Turin, of Nov. 19, says:

"The discussion on the transfer of the capital in the Italian Parliament was resumed to-day. Signor SAN DONATO proposed the transfer of the capital to Naples, which was opposed by several Neapolitan deputies, and the proposition was withdrawn. Gen. DELLA MARMORA, in opposing the proposition of Signor DONATO, said: 'King VICTOR EMMANUEL was enthusiastically received on the occasion of his last visit to Naples, and I can affirm that FRANCIS II. has now no influence whatever. Of this fact he himself is aware.'

PRUSSIA.

A telegram from Berlin, of Nov. 21, says: Lord NAPIER had an audience of the King to-day, and presented his credentials as British Ambassador to the Prussian Court. FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

MONEY MARKET.

LONDON, Monday evening, Nov. 21st.

The fact that discount transactions are now taking place at 6½ to 6¾ per cent., and that short loans are offered in the Stock Exchange at 4¾ per cent., have imparted increased animation to the English funds to-day, and Consols have closed at a further improvement of a ¼ per cent. Consols are quoted at 91¼@91¾. The American news, and the consequent rally of 1d.@2d. ₱ lb. in the Liverpool Cotton market seemed to exercise no influence on the funds. Confederate Loan shows a rally of an eighth on the news of Mr. LINCOLN'S reelection, and the further violent fluctuations in the price of gold. Erie Shares (paid up) rose 1d., and Illinois Central Shares declined ½d. The Egyptian Loan is ¼d. to ⅜d. premium. There were no gold operations at the Bank. The accounts from Paris continue to describe great flatness on the Bourse, and the belief is still stated to prevail that there will soon be a public loan is some shape. The suspension has been announced of Messrs. J. LOWRIE & Co., merchants, chiefly engaged in the oil trade, with liabilities of about $30,000.

The Times' city article of Wednesday, Nov. 22, says: Consols closed at the same price as on Monday, 91¼@⅜.

At the Bank there was a total cessation of demand for discount, and in the open market the rates for the best paper continue at 6¾@7¼ ₱ cent. Confederate Loan advanced 1 ₱ cent., 62 to 64. The movement is attributable to the rally in cotton at Liverpool.

LIVERPOOL COTTON MARKET—NOV. 21.

NEW BOOKS.

ARIZONA AND SONORA; THE GEOGRAPHY, HISTORY AND RESOURCES OF THE SILVER REGION OF NORTH AMERICA. By SYLVESTER MOWRY of Arizona, Lieutenant Third Artillery United States Army, late United States Boundary Commissioner, &c. Third Edition Revised and Enlarged, 12mo. New-York: HARPER & BROTHERS.

Though the present is nominally the third edition of this work, it appears by the preface that the two former impressions were brought out in California, and probably scarcely a single stray copy has found its way to the shores of the Atlantic. The book is, therefore, in reality, as new as it is authentic. Lieut. MOWRY is, perhaps, the first living authority on the actual condition and mineral resources of Arizona, Sonora, Chihuahua and the entire regions of Northern Mexico, an immense district, formerly under the Spanish regime the seat of remunerative and well-directed industry to a degree not generally understood, but now abandoned in a great measure to desolation, and awaiting its political and social resurrection under the fostering care of the United States Government. Nor is this care and protection a matter of difficult attainment; the security of life and property is the only thing required. Once let this be assured by the repression of Indian outrages and ordinary police regulations, and the steady flow of population attracted by the mineral riches of the territory is certain beyond all dispute. So large a portion of information respecting the mines, their produce, methods of working, &c., as this small work affords, has never been accessible to the public in any other shape. Sonora and the adjacent regions have been untrodden ground for the traveler. They now acquire additional interest from the great probability that the development of their untold mineral wealth is among the schemes of the French Emperor, who looks forward to a foothold there as not the least advantage of his Mexican operations. However this may be, it is ascertained that the country is too rich naturally to remain much longer unoccupied, and Lieut. MOWRY reports very favorably of the disposition of the existing government toward American settlers. The omission of the United States to secure possession of a seaport on the Gulf of California, at the time when the Gadsden purchase was made, which would have brought this region into direct communication with California is much regretted, and has retarded more than any other circumstance the settlement of the Territory. A multitude of facts are adduced to show that the popular impression of the barrenness of Arizona and the neighboring districts are entirely unfounded, and that, though mining industry will always be the first interest, the agricultural resources are very great, and sufficient of themselves to attract the notice of emigrants. From this portion of the United States will undoubtedly be derived a great part of the world's future supply of silver and copper, to say nothing of gold. All who are concerned in knowing the "whereabout" of these attractive commodities must read Lieut. MOWRY'S book. It is awkwardly put together, and shows no literary skill in its arrangement, but the facts are there, and will easily be discerned by interested eyes.

GEMS FROM EUROPEAN PICTURE GALLERIES. One Hundred Engravings on Steel after the best Paintings of the most celebrated Artists, ancient and modern. London and New-York: L. W. BOUTON.

This elegant collection, furnished at a moderate price and presented in a shape at once attractive and convenient, will minister powerfully to the growing taste in this country for the fine arts. The masterpieces of every school, from RAPHAEL to REYNOLDS and WILKIE, are here brought home to our drawing-room centre tables and firesides. For a sum perfectly insignificant in these days of unlimited expense, any one may here supply themselves with a gallery of art that will bring them into communion with the finest pictorial works of the mighty minds of old, and their worthy successors of the present day.

HISTORY OF THE PROCESSES OF MANUFACTURE AND USES OF PRINTING, GASLIGHT, POTTERY, GLASS AND IRON. With numerous illustrations. From the Encyclopedia Britannica. 12mo. New-York: JOHN BRADBURN.

Any addition to the scanty literature of the economic arts is always welcome. Inventors and mechanics too rarely take the pen in hand, though the works of Mr. SMILES show how deeply exciting the annals of discovery may become when properly treated. Much invaluable information of the kind perishes for want of a historian and a record. The treatises contained in this volume are by Messrs. FAIRBAIRN, TOMLINSON and HANSARD—true "masters of arts," each an indisputable authority in his respective sphere. No youth can read the volume without imbibing a love for the mechanical processes it describes, and their great results.

THE OCEAN WAIFS; A STORY OF ADVENTURE ON LAND AND SEA. By Capt. MAYNE REID, Author of The Desert Home, The Boy Hunters, &c. With Illustrations. 12mo. Boston: TICKNOR & FIELDS.

Capt. MAYNE REID, the indefatigable, is again afloat on the element where he seems equally at home as when we lately saw him, "high and dry," with The Plant Hunters, on the peaks of the Himmaleh Mountains. Happy in addressing an ingenuous audience, who drink in with unquestioning delight the wonders he so lavishly offers them, Capt. REID needs no passport to secure the attention of his readers. The illustrations to Ocean Waifs are clever and spirited.

EMILY CHESTER. A Novel. 12mo. Boston: TICKNOR & FIELD.

Unannounced and unheralded by the name of any well-known author, this book was launched silently into the sea of letters. It has made its own way, by no extraneous artifice, to a high position among contemporary works of fiction. A novel of society and every-day domestic life, it is redeemed from the mass of similar productions by a psychological purpose, clearly conceived in the mind of the writer, and carried out, through the medium of the characters and incidents of the story, with no inconsiderable skill. This purpose may be briefly stated as a vindication of the supremacy of the affections over the counter claims of the intellect, and the certain misery that results from the attempt to subvert the relative position of each, when it is allowed to become a moving power, constraining woman's action in the most important concern of her life. Character, therefore, more than scenery or incident, becomes the chief concern of the story, though the book shows a familiarity with European life, and gives continued evidence of a cultivated taste. The readers of Emily Chester will be on the watch for the reappearance of its authoress.

THE JOURNAL AND LETTERS OF SAMUEL CURWEN, AN AMERICAN IN ENGLAND, FROM 1755-1783, with an Appendix of Biographical Sketches. By GEORGE ATKINSON WARD. Fourth Edition. 8vo. Boston: LITTLE, BROWN & Co.

The words "Fourth Edition," on the title-page of this handsome volume, show that it has met with a popularity rarely enjoyed by publications of family papers and documents of private concern. This may be accounted for by the fact that to Americans its contents are interesting, as a faithful picture of the pursuits, hopes and feelings of that respectable but misguided body of men, the Loyalist refugees of the Revolutionary era, as portrayed by one of themselves—while to Englishmen it is curious and attractive, as a true representation of society and public opinion in London during the Revolutionary War. Partly as a relaxation from anxiety, Mr. CURWEN'S curiosity seems to have led him everywhere. Like strangers generally, he saw much more of the country than most of its natives ever did, and all he saw was daily noted down for the information of his family at home, during a weary nine years' sojourn in a foreign land. The duty of the editor, Mr. WARD, has been carefully performed. He has added explanatory notes and biographical sketches of SAMUEL CURWEN'S associates—sufferers in a like cause with himself. In connection with SABINE'S American Loyalists, recently published in uniform style by the same house, (as lately noticed in this paper,) a large amount of information has been put on record that well deserves the gratitude of the future historian, and, with our present means of information, quite exhausts the subject of the checkered fortunes endured by the partisans of the crown, during the progress and after the termination of the colonial struggle for freedom.

SPECTROPHIA, OR SURPRISING SPECTRAL ILLUSIONS, Showing Ghost's Everywhere, &c. 4 to., New-York: JAMES G. GREGORY.

This little work will undoubtedly add to the amusement and merriment of the family circle, gathered around the fire at Christmas time. It is founded on a curious optical principle, which is fully explained in the illustrations and accompanying directions. Though now brought forward for the recreation of young and old, it probably affords a key to much that is usually considered inexplicable in stories of spectral appearances, and as such, merits the attention of the philosopher.

MEMOIRS OF LIEUT.-GEN. WINFIELD SCOTT, LL. D. Written by Himself. 2 vols., 12mo. New-York: SHELDON & Co.

Whatever is written by a man in the position of Gen. SCOTT is as truly history as the deeds that have earned for him the gratitude of his countrymen. Speaking with the authority of one placed in the front rank of public affairs for nearly fifty years, his words have all the weight that an active participation in the great events of the period can bestow. The task of reviewing the transactions of a long and busy life, and condensing, in moderate dimensions, the lessons it affords for the instruction of the coming generation, and the vindication of his own just fame, is an arduous one when undertaken at seventy-eight years of age. The spirit of the veteran, however, has not shrunk from the effort, and the result is now before us. How large a space of our political and national history is included in the span of a single life, is forcibly brought home to us by the fact that when the future Lieut.-General was riding his first circuit as an "incipient man of law," he was attracted to Richmond to witness the trial for high treason, of AARON BURR. From that day to the present time, his personal and professional labors have been unintermitted. A principle of selection, therefore, in the choice of events to be narrated was unavoidable. On this ground the work may disappoint some who look for details on any special topic; but it must be regarded rather as material for the right understanding of the author's career—sketches of the great landmarks of his life, and of the men he came in contact with, rather than a collection of the minute facts, that the pious care of the biographer brings together in illustration of his subject, but which it would be impossible for an aut obiographer to furnish. Independently of the personal charm attaching to the incidents of his early life, perhaps the most valuable portion of Gen. SCOTT'S work are the pages devoted to a history of his campaign in Mexico. Many particulars are here placed on record, essential to the proper comprehension of the position of the commanding officer, and the principles that guided him in the arduous duties imposed by the very military successes that are the crowning glory of his labors as a soldier. Though some passages in the memoirs would intimate that Gen. SCOTT is not in harmony with the great mass of his countrymen, in relation to the present contest in our midst, it is greatly to his credit as a man, that an unfeigned horror of war and its ghastly accompaniments, that no charm of success can hide from the experience of a veteran, is the feeling now most prominent in his mind, coloring all his views of the political situation of the country. We need say no more to testify our sense of the value of this work. Its place is already fixed in the library of American history. The volumes are embellished with two fine portraits of Gen. SCOTT, and by their appearance do credit to Messrs. SHELDON & Co's. establishment.

GENERAL CITY NEWS.

CENTRAL PARK CONTRIBUTIONS.—The Commissioners of the Central Park are almost daily in receipt of donations from persons interested in the progress of the great work under their charge. A group of figures representing "Auld Lang Syne," the work of a Scotch artist, has been presented by a number of gentlemen, residents of this city. The following animals have been received: From R. C. M. Hoyt, United States Consul at Minatitlan, Mexico, two animals, male and female, known as the Ant Bear. They are very playful and tame, and in their native country roam along the banks of the rivers in droves. From Mrs. Roosevelt, eight splendid Bantams; from Geo. R. Brooks, three English Rabbits; from D. G. Piper, one Hawk; from Gen. Asboth, one Florida Black Bear; from Alex. M. C. Stetson, two Guinea Pigs; from T. F. Trenor, two Bluejays and one Robin; from Miss Bessie Greenfield, one Grey Squirrel.

Dr. TYNG preaches to-morrow evening the first of a series of sermons, to be continued on every Sunday evening, in the Unitarian Church, Fortieth-street, between Fifth and Sixth avenues. This building has been rented for Sunday evenings through the Winter by the Church of the Holy Trinity, of which Rev. STEPHEN H. TYNG, Jr., is Rector. It is a novelty in church-work. LAW REPORTS.

Conviction of Tibbetts.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

Before Judge Russell.

James Brannegan, who plead guilty to manslaughter in the fourth degree, was sentenced yesterday to imprisonment for life. The trial of Luther C. Tibbetts for felonious assault on the Janitor of the Produce Exchange was resumed. The evidence being all in the counsel for the prisoner summed up for the defence, followed by Mr. Hall for the People. The case was then submitted to the Jury, who brought in a verdict of guilty of an assault with a deadly weapon with intent to do bodily harm. Mr. Tibbetts has not yet been sentenced, and in the meantime will be permitted to go upon bail.

Wills Admitted.

FRIDAY, Dec. 9—P. M.

The Gold-Room ruled nearly the same to-day as on Thursday, and left off about the same; sales through the day 242½@239½, and quoted 239½ near the close of 'Change hour. There was no particular excitement in the Room, and no scarcity of Gold for delivery on maturing contracts. The difference was rather the other way.

The activity in Money noticed yesterday, in connection with the large settlements in Government Stocks, continued to-day. The last instalment on the $25,000,000 negotiation was paid up yesterday, and the effect, after a few days, will probably be a return to the same ease in the supply of means at the Bank and on the Street as before. The difference is momentarily felt chiefly among the Brokers, whose facilities are not so free to borrow on Miscellaneous collateral since the large demand on Governments—always the favorite security with lenders.

At the Stock Exchange, Government Stocks were steady for the old 5-20s, and a fraction lower for the new issue and for the 6 ₱ cents of 1881. The Railway Stocks leave off somewhat tame, while on the Miscellaneous shares, including the Coal Stocks and Quicksilver Mining, the bidding was firmer than yesterday.

At the close of dealings, the following quotations were made, as compared with yesterday afternoon. The general market steady in prices, and free from speculative excitement.

Long cut Hams inactive and nominal at 17½c.@17½c. packed. Dry salted Shoulders at 14½c.@14¾c. packed. Sweet pickled Hams, in barrels and tierces, quiet at 16½c.@16¾c. Pickled Shoulders in tierces at 14c. The Lard market is firm, but not active. Prime kettle-rendered is generally held at 21c., though small sales of steam-rendered kettle-dried have been made at 20c. No. 1 Lard 19¾c.@20¾c. Grease 14½c.@17½c. The Beef packing lingers on in a very quiet way. We quote Mess Beef $16. Extra Mess at $20. Beef Hams at $22 50@$23. Prime Tallow 15c.@15¾c. Freight by all rail to New-York $1 25 ℔ 100 lbs. All rail to Boston and Portland, $1 30. All rail to Philadelphia, $1 28. All rail to Baltimore, via Erie Railway, $1 28—via Pittsburgh & Ft. Wayne Railroad, $1 37." The Cincinnati Price Current, Dec. 7, says:

The receipts of hogs during the week, by the various channels, for the season, were as follows:

Total for the week	57,370
Previously reported	110,221
Total for the season	178,591
Same time in 1863	230,493
Same time in 1862	304,915
Same time in 1861	252,146
Same time in 1860	190,509
Same time in 1859	246,478
Same time in 1858	278,597
Same time in 1857	162,938
Same time in 1856	257,213
Same time in 1855	235,062
Same time in 1854	225,259
Same time in 1853	235,809
Same time in 1852	205,054
Same time in 1851	212,748
Same time in 1850	223,265

The receipts during the week corresponding with the above, last season, was 60,835, and in 1862, 74,000. Drovers and packers talk of short crops, &c., and some say the supply of pork cannot be over one half that of last year, but such opinions must always be taken with great allowance. We have no reason to change our estimate, which is that there will be as many pounds of pork packed the current season as was last season, but that the supply of pork will, notwithstanding, be much less because of the large stock of old meat which was on hand last fall. Still there will be a better supply of spring and summer pork next year, than was last spring and summer, which will make up the difference in supply somewhat. As a general thing, the packing is behind last season."

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The rebel papers now keep us pretty well informed of SHERMAN'S movements. According to Richmond papers of the 7th, SHERMAN had rested his army four days in the vicinity of Louisville, thirty miles north of Millen, which is eighty miles north of Savannah. The region where SHERMAN stopped is one of the richest in Georgia. Richmond, Glasscock and Jefferson Counties abound in provisions and forage, and the Richmond papers say that SHERMAN was busily engaged in gathering a full supply. On the 2d inst., he had passed Millen, and at the rate he had been moving he would be before Savannah by yesterday or sooner. From the tremulous tone of the rebel reports, it is evident they have no positive faith in their ability to hold the city against such an attack as SHERMAN'S invincible army will make.

A dispatch from Philadelphia makes mention of an important movement begun on Wednesday by the Second and Fifth Corps of the Army of the Potomac. These columns moved against Stony Creek, on the Weldon Railroad, LEE'S communications, and important news is hourly expected.

Our special correspondent with Col. MULFORD'S Exchange Fleet informs us that, the exchange of prisoners having been interrupted at Savannah, arrangements had been made for the continuance of the exchange at Charleston.

We have news from Gen. FOSTER'S Department to the 5th inst. At that time his forces were still in their old position, Broad River. The army gunboat Mayflower had captured a rebel battery of four guns at Port Royal Ferry.

FROM EUROPE.

The steamship Hansa, which arrived at this port yesterday from Southampton, Nov. 23, brings the important rumor that the rebel pirate Sea King has been wrecked near the Desert Isles, off Funchal, in the Island of Madeira. The news of the reelection of President LINCOLN made a profound impression in Europe. The London Times regards his reelection as likely to have a good influence in the relations between the United States and Great Britain. Gen. WEBB'S letter on the seizure of the Florida excited considerable comment in English and French papers. The demand for our bonds in the German market was unabated. The general news from the Continent is unimportant.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Gold Room closed yesterday 239¼. The sales through the day ranged about the same as on Thursday, 242¼@239¼. At the Stock Exchange Governments steady on old 5-20s, and a fraction easier for the new and for 6 ℔ cents of 1881. Money in good request. Railways steady at the close of the day.

The extradition case of ERNEST GIELDENFUSS was heard before United States Commissioner WHITE yesterday. The defendant is demanded by the authorities of Prussia under charges of forgery committed at Halle and Leipsic by means of which GIELDENFUSS obtained some $60,000. The depositions taken in Europe were read, and the case was then adjourned until Tuesday next.

Flour was in good demand yesterday, partly on speculation, at firmer prices. Wheat was held higher, but was less active. Oats were freely purchased at advanced rates. Corn, Petroleum and Linseed Oil attracted more attention at rising figures. Provisions were less freely dealt in; Pork and Beef were heavy; Lard and Bacon buoyant. A moderate demand prevailed for the principal kinds of foreign merchandise at irregular prices. The freight market was less active.

The ship Arcole, of this city, from New-Orleans Oct. 20, was captured Nov. 3, 60 miles off Sandy Hook, by the rebel pirate Olustee. The first information of the fact is received through a letter from the Captain to his wife. The Captain is a prisoner at Florence, S. C.

Yesterday the Board of City Canvassers met to canvass the Fourth, Sixth and Nineteenth Wards. A large number of errors were discovered, and several returns sent back for correction.

Both Boards of the Common Council met yesterday, the Councilmen pursuant to adjournment, at 1 o'clock P. M., and the Aldermen by special call at 4 P. M. The Councilmen took a recess till 4, so that both boards met at the same hour. The important business transacted was the passage by both boards of a railroad grant to GEO. H. PURSER, WM. J. PECK, WM. M. TWEED and others, the route to be from the northern limit of Avenue C, through that avenue, Second-street, Avenue A, Essex, Grand, Greene, Canal and West streets to Cortlandt-street Ferry, and return through West, Canal, Mercer, Grand, Norfolk and Hester streets and Avenue C. The grant is made under the General Railroad Act of 1850. The rate of fare is to be the same as now charged, or that may hereafter be charged by roads now running in the city. The Aldermen adjourned to 1 P. M. to day, and the Councilmen to 2 P. M. on Monday.

The funeral of Dr. RANNEY, who was for seventeen years resident physician of the Lunatic Asylum on Blackwell's Island, took place yesterday at Calvary Church, and was largely attended by his friends and brother physicians.

British Impertinence Fitly Rebuked.

Mr. SEWARD'S dispatch, published in our last issue, in reference to the application of Lord WHARNCLIFFE for permission to aid the rebel prisoners in our hands, is pat to the purpose. It hits this new malapertness point blank. Lord WHARNCLIFFE, is told that these prisoners are suffering no privations that need relief—that, if it were so, the American Government has the ability to furnish such relief—that his funds in hand, ostensibly proffered in the name of humanity, came in no small part from profits made by furnishing the rebels with arms and munitions of war to take our lives, and in exchange for the products of the toil of slaves; and it is added that even the rebels themselves probably have yet American spirit enough to rejoice in being saved from the gross insult of this last officious intervention in our domestic affairs.

This Lord WHARNCLIFFE is the President of the famous "Southern Independence Association" of England. We published last May, our readers may remember, a list extending over several columns, of the meetings of the members of this precious society. It comprised many members of the House of Peers, many members of the House of Commons, baronets, magistrates, clergymen, lawyers, merchants—men prominent in every social and every business sphere. The mere fact of such a banding of English men against our nation's existence was in itself an outrage. Were there established a similar league in this country, made up from members of Congress, from our public functionaries, from our wealthy merchants, from our aspiring politicians, styling itself the "Irish Independence Association," and working with zeal to further the ends of the Fenian Brotherhood, the world would ring with the denunciations of the British press against American lawlessness and rascality. But our press has said little about this British combination. It was quietly spotted, and then left in contempt.

Two or three months since Sir HENRY DE HOUGHTON, a prominent member of this association, headed a memorial to our Government to stop the war, to which, through his efforts, and those of his fellows, English and Irish signatures were obtained to the number of three hundred thousand. Gov. SEYMOUR was asked to take charge of it, and, to his credit, declined to touch it. Its bearer then repaired to Washington to present it to the Secretary of State or the President; but was told that he could have no interview with either on the subject. He is now airing his heels on Pennsylvania-avenue, at a loss where to go with his lumber. This our people treat as simply laughable.

But it becomes a shade more serious when the leader of this combination asks a chance here to dine and wine his rebel friends. This is fraternizing with our public enemies in a new fashion. We wonder if these folks fancy there is no limit to American equanimity? Was it not enough to supply the rebels with material for keeping up their war upon our Government, and then remonstrate with our Government upon the uselessness of trying to subdue them? We should suppose that this would have satisfied even British effrontery, without the further solicitation to come upon our own ground to regale and pamper the traitors we have caught. The impudence is all the grosser in view of the fact that the comfortable condition of these prisoners is as well known as is the terrible starvation visited upon our own soldiers in the hands of the rebels. Yet the affront does not disturb us much. It hardly excites as much indignation as disdain. Mr. SEWARD expresses the feeling very aptly.

This quiet spurning of British impertinence is one of the best indications that the full self-poise of conscious strength has at last been attained by our people. The time was when Englishmen could not have taken a tithe of this liberty toward us without its exciting a universal ferment. Our public presses of all parties would have bubbled and frothed as if 'twere some mortal grievance. And yet when we know that we have ten times the strength, we bear it with ten times the composure. Not only all the insults of the British people, in their individual capacity, are coolly borne with, but the more positive injuries of the British Government itself, particularly the depredations upon our commerce, committed through its default by British-built ships, manned by British crews, and sailing often under the British flag. We know that we possess the power, without taking away a single soldier now facing the rebels, to brush away Canada like gossamer; and without taking a single vessel from our blockade, to sink every ship in the British navy as if they were but cockle-shells. Yet we take little or no trouble to put England and Englishmen on their better behavior. Whatever does not seriously damage us we let pass with but a scornful word or two. Whatever does seriously damage us, we quietly reserve for future settlement.

Not even Englishmen can be so obtuse as to mistake this composure for pusillanimity. They can't help understanding that a people which, of its own free will, as just attested at the ballot-box, maintains a war of this unexampled magnitude year after year, at a cost of untold blood and treasure, has considerable spirit. Having some perception of this, they should reflect more than they do upon its possible consequences. They must not presume, because most of their indignities do not now even chafe us, that there may not be wrongs for which redress will be demanded. Let there be no presumption because an immediate reckoning is not demanded. Old scores are always the hardest to settle.

Sherman in Southern Georgia.

We have news of SHERMAN'S army from Richmond papers of as late a date as Wednesday. It confirms the accounts we had yesterday of the march of SHERMAN toward Savannah, along the narrow strip of country that lies between the Ogechee and Savannah Rivers. The formation of this stretch of land is peculiar—there being extensive and continuous marshes along the banks of both rivers, with an elevated ridge of land running about equidistant between them. Thus while our troops march along the ridge, both their flanks are protected by the marshes. It was given out, last Saturday, that Lieut.-Gen. GRANT calculated SHERMAN would reach the seaboard by that day; and now the Richmond editors calculate that he will reach Savannah today. GRANT'S calculation was not far from accurate, or at least would not have been, had SHERMAN marched without stoppage; but it seems by rebel accounts that he halted his army for four days at Louisville, a little place about 110 miles from the seaboard, in order to gather in such forage and supplies as he required. The rebels still proclaim that he will have a fight before he gets Savannah. We suppose it likely that when they found he had passed by Augusta without assailing it, they removed the troops which had been hastily gathered there, under Gen. BRAGG, WADE HAMPTON and the local Militia Generals, and hastened them forward by the railroad to Charleston and thence to Savannah, to confront SHERMAN. Beside the officers we have mentioned, there are at Savannah Messrs. HARDEE, DICK TAYLOR and GUSTAVUS W. SMITH. It is not unlikely that the troops under COBB, whom SHERMAN found at MACON, have been running a race to reach Savannah before our forces. They could take railroad from Macon as far as Loyola, and thence march to the Southern Georgia road, which would carry them to Savannah. In the meantime, we have not heard a word lately of BEAUREGARD, who announced to the people of Georgia, twenty-two days ago, that he was hastening to their relief. We should think that with BEAUREGARD, COBB, BRAGG, HARDEE, SMITH, TAYLOR, HAMPTON, WAYNE, WHEELER, and the score of other great Confederate Generals, who are gathered together to stop SHERMAN'S march, they would make some strenuous efforts to prevent his getting into Savannah. We hope they will soon let us know what success they meet with.

Rebel Vessels With English Registers.

The Secretary of the Navy, in that part of his report which refers to the depredations of the rebel privateers, speaks of the Tallahassee as "an English-built blockade-runner from Liverpool," and adds;

"I am not aware that any valid transfer of ownership of this vessel has taken place, and am induced to believe that she is now, while depredating on our commerce, registered as a British vessel, in the Custom House at Liverpool."

We do not know what were the special grounds for the Secretary's belief in this case; but if the fact be as he believes, it is certainly not the only case of the kind. The A. D. Vance was exactly such another.

She was a vessel engaged in the rebel service, not indeed as a privateer, but in the preliminary capacity of a blockade-runner, in which capacity the Tallahassee also had served her time under the name of the Atlanta. Gov. VANCE, of North Carolina, in his late message to the State Legislature, spoke of her services in comparison with those of the Tallahassee, deprecating the latter's use of Wilmington as a place of refuge, because it increased the stringency of the blockade, and had led to the capture of many steamers, while, said he, "It is no exaggeration to say that the A. D. Vance alone, in solid benefit, has been worth more to our Government than all the cruisers we have ever put forth."

In another part of his message he says: "The blockade-running operations of the States are at present pretty nearly suspended. The capture of the A. D. Vance is considered due to the seizure of her foreign coal for the use of the cruiser Tallahassee," and he recommends that application be made to the rebel Congress for her loss.

This vessel was then thoroughly a rebel vessel. Her capture suspended "the blockade-running operations of the State," and North Carolina is to be remunerated for her loss by the rebel Congress; and yet this vessel, when captured, was found to be running under a British register, issued in Dublin in September, 1862, on which was a certificate, indorsed by the Register at Greenock, on the 21st of May, 1864, that Capt. WYLLIE had that day been appointed her master, and Capt. WYLLIE was master of the vessel when she was captured.

There was nothing in this to save the vessel from condemnation as a prize, because she was captured while running out of Wilmington, and the breach of the blockade was sufficient cause for her forfeiture, whatever were her ownership. But suppose she had been overhauled on a voyage from Nassau to Greenock, bound thither for repairs, or to be fitted out as a privateer, or for any other purpose. Her master might perhaps have claimed her discharge under this British register, as a neutral vessel on a lawful voyage; and if our officers had refused to allow this register to shield so notorious a rebel craft, we might have been treated to another chorus of complaints and abuse, and held up again, as we have been before, by English newspapers, as "the pest of the ocean."

It seems to us that a due regard to good neighborhood among nations would lead to the prevention of such things. They are provocative of difficulties even when they occur in the blockade-running business. But if they are extended also to privateers, they certainly will lead to trouble. Our claims for damages done by these vessels, English-built, English-manned, armed and equipped, and navigated by English crews, who if any accident befalls the vessel immediately betake themselves "home" to England, will call loudly for reparation some of these days. If the vessels also sail under British registers, with what face can those claims be resisted?

TO OUR OLD SOLDIERS.—We learn from Washington, where Gen. HANCOCK has his headquarters, that enlistments in the new First Veteran Army Corps are progressing favorably. The order of the War Department for the organization of the corps provided that it should consist of twenty thousand men, who had already served honorably not less than two years, and that enlistments should commence on the 1st day of December, and continue until the first day of January next. It will thus be seen that, to be up to time, enlistments should average about six hundred and fifty men per day. We should think that, taking the whole country over, and considering the large number of men there are of the class referred to, and the great inducements offered, and the short term of service required, that this number might easily be reached. There is a liberal bounty of three hundred dollars to the volunteer, payable on being mustered in, and only one year of service.

We are convinced that the thousands of old soldiers throughout the land, who still desire to take a hand in delivering the last blow to the great rebellion, and who still hope to see the Union restored and the flag under which they have fought triumph, only need that the subject be brought before them, to induce them to join the fine and gallant corps, at whose head is the finest and most gallant of our commanders, Major-Gen. HANCOCK.

Amusements.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—DONIZETTI'S opera of "Don Sebastian" was most successfully repeated here last evening. The artistes were all in fine voice, and the performance in every respect was admirable.

To-day there will be a matinee performance of "La Figiéa del Reggimento," in which Miss KELLOG will appear as Marie. The caste includes also the names of Signor LOTTI, Signor SUSINI, &c.

CONCERT.—Madame DE LUSSAN will give a grand concert at Irving Hall to-night.

The Rebel Plunderers.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

If a party of Federal officers, not in uniform, should be taken prisoners, within the rebel lines, it is probable that they would be immediately executed as spies. To present their commissions, when captured, would only make the matter worse for them, as it would be proof of their guilt.

Why, then, should the United States treat with such lenity the disguished vagabonds who come into our territory, and onboard our ships, to plunder, destroy, and murder? N.

Public Gas.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Can nothing be done to check the waste of gas which annoys one's nasal organs and lungs so much at this time in the evening? I cannot leave my house (in Nineteenth-street) without experiencing a sense of suffocation, and even within, the odor is unendurable. There is a leak, and a big one, somewhere.

Ought not the authorities to see to it? Not only offensive is it, but positively injurious to health. L.

The So-called Capt. T. Eginton Hogg.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Has it never occurred to you that T. E. HOGG, who was seized in the attempt to capture the Pacific mail steamer, is the very person who, about a year ago or more, took passage in company with some others who, like himself, pretended to be mere passengers, in a schooner from Matamoras or Brownsville, bound to the North, and stole the schooner and cargo and carried her to Honduras, or somewhere on that coast, whence some of them went to England? He is the same HOGG. INQUIRER.

Independence Bell.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The minds of the patriotic citizens, in anticipation of an honorable peace, naturally inquire in what manner the event can be commemorated most appropriately. Why may not a fac-simile of that relic of the revolution, the Independence Bell, be used to celebrate the restoration of peace as the original bell is unfit for use. I would respectfully suggest the propriety of opening a subscription here for the purpose, through some of our leading citizens. Let the subscriptions be for a certain sum, say one or two dollars, that all may lend a helping hand, and let a plan also be adopted to receive sealed proposals, the highest bidder to have the honor of first ringing the bell on the occasion named, the balance of the funds to be appropriated for the benefit of our soldiers. Our sister city, Philadelphia, has the matter under way, and is prosecuting it with zeal. Let us not be behind. S. R. BURRELL, No. 71 Broad-st.

FARE ON THE BROOKLYN RAILROADS.—The Common Council Committee having the matter in charge, it is understood, have agreed to recommend to the board an increase in the rate of fare per passenger on the city railroads from five to eight cents. The report of the committee will probably be presented at the next meeting.

RECRUITING.—The County Volunteer Committee are hard at work, and under their auspices recruiting is progressing quite briskly. Yesterday nearly fifty men enlisted, and the number increases almost daily.

IMPORTANT ARRESTS.—Very much sensation pervaded our business community, yesterday, when it began to be noised about that an officer of Maj.-Gen. DIX'S staff was in town, with peremptory orders to arrest a number of our most wealthy and highly esteemed business men, and take possession of their counting-rooms, and the books and papers therein. The order was executed at 10 o'clock, yesterday morning, so far as to seize the counting-rooms and to arrest one of the parties, who was sent on to report to Gen. DIX yesterday afternoon. Other parties sought were out of town, and may have been arrested elsewhere. These persons are charged with "furnishing supplies to the enemy," and the case has something to do with the outfitting of the steamer Ella Warley, (which was run down by the North Star, off Sandy Hook, many months ago,) and other vessels sent into the Gulf about the same time. Gen. DIX has arrested in New-York a number of persons known to be engaged in nefarious trafficing with the rebels. These persons, it is understood, seek to palliate their detected guilt by implicatting parties in this city who have heretofore stood at the head of the business men of Rhode Island, and whose honor and loyalty have never been challenged. The investigation is not completed, and the authorities deem it proper to withhold the names and details of the case for the present.—Providence Journal, Dec. 9.

Funeral of Dr. Moses H. Ranney.

The funeral of Dr. RANNEY, who died on Wednesday evening last of typhus fever, a disease he contracted while in the discharge of his duties, and after one of his assistants, Dr. A. FALLS MARVIN, had been carried off by it, took place yesterday morning from Cavalry Church, and was largely attended by his friends and brother physicians, among whom were Collector DRAPER, Commissioners BELL, NICHOLSON, GRINNELL, and several members of the New-York Academy of Medicine. Crescent Lodge of the Order of Freemasons, of whom deceased was a member, was also in attendance, and after the funeral service, which was conducted by Rev. Messrs. CRAWLEY, WALKER and PETERS, took charge of the body, which they escorted to the Hudson River Railroad depot en route for Stockbridge, Vt., where they will be interred.

Dr. RANNEY was born in Stockbridge, Vt., on the 16th of August, 1814. He studied medicine and graduated at the Berkshire Medical Institute in Pittsfield, Mass., in 1838, settled in Saulsbury, Vt., and there practiced for seven years. The Doctor came to this city in 1845, and received the appointment of Assistant Physician of Bellevue Hospital under Dr. HASBROUK. After six months service at Bellevue, Dr. RANNEY entered upon his studies as Assistant at the Asylum. Shortly after he was appointed Resident Physician of that institution, succeeding Dr. STEWART, and he held that position to the time of his death. Dr. RANNEY was a member of the New-York Academy of Medicine and of the New-York Pathological Society. He was for 17 years Resident Physician of the Lunatic Asylum on Blackwell's Island, and from his experience and close application to the care of insanity was accounted as authority, and as such his opinions were frequently made the basis of judicial decisions.

The Prussian Extradition Case—Guldenfuss Before U. S. Commissioner White.

Yesterday the Consul-General of Prussia, JOHN WILLIAN SCHMIDT, and the representatives in this country of the institutions in Prussia which have sustained losses by the alleged forgeries of ERNST GULDENFUSS, alias GIRARD, appeared before United States Commissioner WHITE as witnesses in the action for the extradition of GUELDENFUSS. The prisoner since his arrest in Troy a few days since has been kept in confinement in this city, awaiting an examination of his case. It would seem, from his own confession, there is but little doubt of his guilt, and the question of his rendition to the Prussian authorities turns only upon technicalities of law.

Messrs. A. J. DITTENHOEFER and ROBERT L. HOLMES appeared as counsel for the prisoner, and Mr. H. D. LAFAUGH for the applicants for extradition.

Mr. DITTENHOEFFER at the beginning of the investigation, raised the point that there was no existing treaty between the Government of the United States and Prussia; that by the terms of the convention between the contracting Powers, the treaty entered into in 1852 had long since expired by its own limitation.

The point was argued at considerable length by the respective counsel, and the Commissioner decided that the section referred to as limiting the time of the treaty could not legally be construed, as the counsel for the accused insisted.

Mr. LAFAUGH offered in evidence the Executive mandate for the arrest of the accused, also the proceedings taken before the Royal District Court of Halle, authenticated by the American Minister.

Mr. ROBERT D. HOLMES insisted that the certificate of the American Minister was not sufficient, in that it did not describe the tribunal before which the proceedings were had, and whether it had proper jurisdiction. This question was argued at considerable length by all the counsel in the case.

For the purpose of enabling the Commissioner to determine whether the papers should be admitted as evidence, they were, by permission, read by Mr. LAFAUGH. They were very long, embracing all the proceedings before the Prussian courts.

After another argument they were admitted as evidence.

Consul-General SCHMIDT was the first witness examined. He testified that he had officially the supervision of the case for the extradition of GULDENFUSS, and that among his dispatches in relation to the case, he had received a letter with the signature of ERNST GULDENFUSS.

The letter referred to purports to be a confession of guilt on the part of the prisoner. EMIL GREEFF, who was next called, identified GULDENFUSS. After some further testimony of minor importance, the counsel for the prisoner said that he wished the case to be adjourned until Tuesday. The papers had been studiously kept from the prisoner's counsel, and it would be necessary to give them time to re-examine the papers.

The case was adjourned until Tuesday morning at 11 o'clock.

DANVILLE, Penn., June 2, 1862.

DR. WM. H. GREGG—Dear Sir: In February, 1861, I was afflicted with sugar diabetes, and for five months I passed more than two gallons of water in twenty-four hours. I was obliged to get up as often as ten or twelve times during the night, and in five months I lost about fifty pounds in weight. During the month of July, 1861, I procured two bottles of Constitution water, and after taking two bottles I was entirely cured, soon after regaining my usual good health. Yours, truly,

PUBLISHED THIS DAY,
THE MAGIC WHEEL,
A Beautiful Christmas Toy for Children. Nos. 1 and 2. Price $1 50 each.

From the Commercial Advertiser, Oct. 23.

Is one of the most interesting and amusing things of the kind ever invented. By looking through perforations in the rim of the Magic Wheel, while it is revolving, very simple pictures on circular pieces of pasteboard, are made, by the aid of a mirror, to assume the shape of living and moving creatures, and to perform the most wonderful antics. The mode in which the illusion is produced would puzzle grown people, while children, without inquiring into the whys and wherefores, are delighted with the performances of the Magic Wheel.

A REMARKABLE NOVEL! Will be published, Dec. 15, by JOHN BRADBURN, (successor to M. Doolady,) No. 49 Walker-st., New-York.
"THE MORRISONS,"
A Story of Domestic Life. By Mrs. MARGARET HOSMER. One Volume, neat beveled Cloth, $2.

Of this book, a competent critic remarks: "The Author of 'THE MORRISONS' is to be congratulated upon having produced a capital novel, and one calculated to win for her considerable reputation. I confess myself greatly pleased with the book, and am confident of its success as a literary venture. I know of no recent work of fiction more full of the elements of popularity, none more truly characterized by the proper blending of all that makes up the successful novel. The characters are, for the most part, those of every-day life, neither overdrawn nor highly colored. The story is one of sustained and absorbing interest, increasing in its hold upon the reader as he proceeds toward the denouement. Some of the scenes are intensely wrought, while throughout the whole there is so much of real, honest home-life, that no break occurs to mar or jar the pleasing ensemble. Around the pivotal figure, BESS SAUNDERS, the others revolve as harmoniously and appropriately as the spheres of a Planetarium.

In the style there is a sprightliness, by no means common in modern novels, and a blessed absence of the wearisome didactics and dialogue which are the leaden weight of works of fiction now-a-days. Nothing strained or stilted breaks the thread on which the plot is hung, and so easy and unstudied is the phraseology of the book, that the reader is little likely to have the attention drawn off from studying character into the study of style. The scenery and portraits leave little of the canvas visible. I predict for 'THE MORRISONS' a very large sale and permanent popularity."

HISTORY OF THE WORLD.
By PHILIP SMITH, B. A.,
One of the principal contributors to the dictionaries of Greek and Roman Antiquities, Biography and Geography.
PLAN OF THE WORK.

Since Sir Walter Raleigh solaced his imprisonment in the Tower by the composition of his "History of the World," the literature of England has never achieved the work which he left unfinished. There have been "Universal Histories," from the bulk of an encyclopædia to the most meagre outline, in which the annals of each nation are separately recorded: but without an attempt to trace the story of Divine Providence and human progress in one connected narrative. It is proposed to supply this want by a work, condensed enough to keep it within a reasonable size, but yet so full as to be free from the dry baldness of an epitome. The literature of Germany abounds in history—such as those of Müller, Schlosser, Karl von Rotteck, Duncker and others—which at once prove the demand for such a book, and furnish models, in some degree, for its execution. But even these great works are somewhat deficient in that organic unity which is the chief aim of this "History of the World."

The story of our whole race, like that of each separate nation, has "a beginning, a middle, and an end." That story we propose to follow, from its beginning in the sacred records, and from the dawn of civilization in the East,—through the successive Oriental Empires,—the rise of liberty and the perfection of heathen polity, arts, and literature in Greece and Rome,—the change which passed over the face of the world when the light of Christianity sprung up,—the origin and first appearance of those barbarian races which overthrew both divisions of the Roman Empire—the annals of the States which rose on the Empire's ruins, including the picturesque details of medieval history, and the steady progress of modern liberty and civilization,—and the extension of these influences, by discovery, conquest, colonization, and Christian missions, to the remotest regions of the earth. In a word, as separate histories reflect the detached scenes of human action and suffering, our aim is to bring into one view the several parts which, assuredly form one great whole, moving onwards, under the guidance of Divine Providence, to the unknown end ordained in the Divine purposes.

No pains will be spared to make this history scholar-like in substance and popular in style. It will be founded on the best authorities, ancient and modern, original and secondary. The vast progress recently made in historical and critical investigations, the results obtained from the modern science of comparative philology, and the discoveries which have laid open new sources of information concerning the East, afford such facilities as to make the present a fit epoch for our undertaking.

The work will be divided into three Periods, each complete in itself, and will form eight volumes in demy octavo.

I.—ANCIENT HISTORY, Sacred and Secular; from the Creation to the Fall of the Western Empire, in A. D. 476. Two volumes.

II.—MEDIEVAL HISTORY, Civil and Ecclesiastical; from the fall of the Western Empire to the taking of Constantinople by the Turks, in A. D. 1453. Two volumes.

III.—MODERN HISTORY; from the fall of the Byzantine Empire to our own Times. Four volumes.

It will be published in 8 vols., 8 vo. Price in cloth, $3 50 per volume. Sheep, $4 50. Half morocco, $5. Volume 1 now ready.

Agents wanted in all parts of the country.

Applications should be made at once to the publishers.

FURNITURE.

AMERICAN HALL CASTOR MANUFACTURING CO.—A new and most useful castor may be seen at the office of Messrs. HULL & GOODELL, Manufacturers' sole Agents, No. 197 Broadway, Room No. 4. This castor is the invention of a Mr. PEDRICK, of Washington, D. C., and is curiously composed of a glass ball, placed in a socket of wood or metal, the interior being so constructed as to overcome all friction. It cannot be doubted that this "Ball Castor," as it is termed by the ingenious inventor, will, before long, supersede the castor now in use. As an insulator for bedsteads, it must become deservedly popular; and when placed upon the the legs of pianos and melodeons, it improves both the tone and strength of the sound marvelously. The curious and practical can examine this useful article by calling upon the agent above-named.

BEDROOM ENAMELED FURNITURE OF warranted manufacture. Also, solid chestnut and walnut chamber suites, plain and ornamented, at H. F. FARRINGTON'S, No. 368 Canal-st., opposite Wooster. Established 1843.

EVENINGS WITH SHAKESPEARE
AT THE
WINTER GARDEN,
EDWIN BOOTH AS HAMLET.

Mr. Stuart begs to announce that on this evening, and every evening until further notice, Mr. Edwin Booth will appear in his great role of Hamlet, a character in which he is universally acknowledged, in the language of the Daily Times, "to have no living equal." This play is the first of a series of representations to be produced under Mr. Booth's immediate direction, in which the effort, that has already found such cheering sympathy, will be continued to place each play upon the stage in a style combining splendor of production with strict historical correctness. Hamlet has been in active preparation for upward of three months, under the stage management of Mr. J. G. Hanly, and no expense or labor has been spared in the endeavor, by a more strictly pictorial arrangement of the ordinary stage resources, and by the fidelity, appropriateness and superior execution of the several means of scenic illusion to carry out the spirit of the play in the most minute details, and thus advance the drama as a branch of national literature and art.

The scenery, music, costumes, properties and machinery are entirely new, and to give a perfect completeness to the cast, engagements have been made with MRS. J. W. WALLACK, Jr., one of the most gifted actresses who ever graced the stage; MR. EDWIN VARREY, C. KEMBLE MASON, the eminent comedian, THOMAS PLACIDE, who appear nightly in conjunction with Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, Chester, Messrs. G. H. Andrews, C. Walcot, J. G. Hanley, E. Eberle, C. W. Chester, O. S. Fawcett, Duell, Burroughs, Burgess, &c. Doors open at 6½. Commence at 7½, precisely.

SOMETHING TO READ

AND THINK ABOUT.

A New Era.

The hour is coming—and it is a fearful and solemn hour, even to the wisest and the best—when we must bid adieu to the scenes which please us, to the families we love, to the friends we esteem. Whether we think, or whether we think not, that body, which is warm and active with life, shall be cold and motionless with death. The countenance must be pale, the eyes must be closed, the voice must be silenced, the senses must be destroyed, the whose appearance must be changed by the remorseless hand of our last enemy. We may banish the remembrance of the weakness of our human nature; but our reluctance to reflect upon it, and our attempts to drive it from our recollections are in vain. We know that we are sentenced to die; and though we sometimes succeed in casting off for a season the conviction of this unwelcome truth, we can never entirely remove it. The reflection haunts us still; it lies down with us at night, it awakes with us in the morning. The irrevocable doom is passed upon us, and too well do we know it. "Dust thou art, and unto dust thou shalt return."

Part First.

TO THE AFFLICTED.

We hereby notify the public that Prof. R. Leonidas Hamilton, M. D., the most celebrated Liver, Lung and Blood Physician of this or any age, has, after an experience and success unparalleled in the History of Medicine, for over a quarter of a century, demonstrated the fact that the Liver is the main purifier or strainer through which the blood and fluids of the body are cleansed from all poisonous qualities; and that obstructions and derangements in the natural action of this vital organ, is the first and primary cause of all abnormal conditions of the system of a general nature.

SYMPTOMS OF LIVER COMPLAINT.

A sallow or yellow color of the skin, or yellowish brown spots on the face and other parts of the body; dullness or drowsiness, with frequent headache; bitter, or bad taste in the mouth, dryness of the throat, and internal heat; palpitation of the heart; in many cases a dry, teasing cough, with sore throat; unsteady appetite, sour stomach, with a raising of the food and choking sensation in the throat, which is often attributed to worms; sickness and vomiting; distress; heaviness, or a bloated and full feeling about the stomach and sides, which is often attended with pains and tenderness; aggravating pains in the sides, back, or breast, and about the shoulders; restlessness at night, with a tired and sore feeling of the whole body on rising in the morning; colic, pain and soreness through the bowels, with heat; constipation of the bowels, alternating with frequent attacks of diarrhœa; piles, flatulence, nervousness; all-gone feelings; thick, turbid or high-colored urine; coldness of the extremities; rush of blood to the head, with symptoms of apoplexy; numbness of the limbs, especially at night; tenderness and fullness in right side, which often extends to the left; cold chills, alternating with hot flashes; female weakness and irregularities; fainting spirits, &c.

Another very prominent and common symptom is the peculiar lowness of spirits and gloomy forebodings of the unfortunate sufferer; persons of naturally buoyant and cheerful dispositions are often changed to dull, morose and desponding hypochondriachs; those before amiable and sprightly, become peevish, irritable and unsociable; in short, undertake an entire change of manner and character.

It depends much upon the length of time the difficulty has been existing, organization of the particular system affected, climate, general habits, occupation, sex, &c. Of course, the longer the derangement, the more numerous the symptoms of internal discord. If nature, in her salutary struggles to relieve the blood from its poisonous qualities, throws or deposits the greater portion of it upon the Lungs, there is at once more or less cough, with, eventually, all the long train of symptoms of Consumption. If the bowels receive most of the poisonous deposit, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, Piles, Bilious Colic, &c., are the result. If the stomach receive it instead, Dyspepsia, Cholera Morbus, Cramps, and Pains in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Heartburn, and other unpleasant symptoms. If the bilious matter is thrown to the skin, all kinds of eruptions and skin diseases is produced. It is a law of the animal economy that to be natural and free, the body must throw off all worn-out and poisonous, irritating materials, by the process called secretion and excretion as fast as it takes on new particles by assimilation and nutrition. Now I have ascertained by experiments that the majority of all this worn-out bilious matter taken up by the blood from the system is separated from it by the Liver when in a healthy condition, and then thrown into the bowels, and passed off with the excretions. By this you see the moment the Liver becomes affected from any cause, it fails to separate this offensive matter from the blood and fluids, to an extent proportionate to the torpidity or disorder of the organs; consequently nature seeks other outlets through which she can rid the blood of its unhealthy mass, when it is thrown to the surface through the pores of the skin, which it irritates, and if the unnatural process is continued long, various forms of rashes, blotches, eruptions, sores, ulcers, boils, swellings, &c., are induced such as are seen in different persons and localities of the globe.

So with all kinds of fits and nervous diseases; the same poison matter that is naturally, and should be taken up by the liver, is left in the blood, and if the brain and nervous system is weakened by overaction, or any cause, they are thrown in a negative position, which renders them incapable of resisting the accumulation, and the consequence is, irregular action of the brain and nervous system takes place, and in their efforts to free themselves of the offending substances, convulsions or fits of various kinds are produced, in all degrees of severity, from the slightest fainting fit to the most dangerous cases of Apoplexy or Epilepsy. Should the irritation settle, and be confined to the general nerves of the system, Neuralgia, and all grades of nervous affections supervene, from the most intense pains and irritability to the simple restlessness so often found in females of a delicate and imperfect organization. Restlessness is at night produced from the same; and Nervous Headache, Drowsiness, Heaviness, Dizziness, Roaring, Buzzing and Singing in the Ears and Head, Dimness of Sight, Deafness, Throbbing or Darting Pains in the Head. If the bilious matter should settle upon the mucous membrane that lines the stomach, throat and bowels, then we find the following symptoms or manifestations of the internal disarrangement, viz., Waterbrash, Heartburn, Sickness and Vomiting, Colic, Pains in the Sides, Stomach, Bowels, Back or Breast, Sick Headache, Palpitations of the Heart, Wind in the Stomach, with Distress and Fulness, Choking Spells, Heat and Dryness in the Throat, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Canker in the Mouth and Throat, Bad Breath, Thirst, Cold Chills, alternating with Hot Flashes, Dysentery, Diarrhœa, Cholera and Cholera Morbus, Sour Stomach, with raising of the food, Unsteady Appetite, Constipation of the Bowels, All-gone Feelings, Piles &c. Every one of the above symptoms will often be found to increase where there appears to be a natural susceptibility to affections of this nature.

Part Second.

CONTINUATION OF PROF. HAMILTON'S THEORY.

Hoarseness, Spitting Blood, Bronchitis, Asthma, or Phthisic and Consumption are produced by the same cause. The bilious material is thrown upon the delicate membrane that lines the air passages—Irritation, with cough; more or less severe Soreness through the throat, breast, sides, back, or shoulders, or pains of various degrees of severity, and unless something is done immediately to relieve Nature, inflammation will supervene, followed by ulceration, night sweats, cold chills, hectic fever, raising of matter, with perhaps a little blood, diarrhœa, sore mouth and throat, &c., which are indications of a powerful effort of Nature to relieve the system of poisonous, bilious material which has fastened itself upon the most delicate and sensitive organ in the human system—the Lungs and air passages.

In connection with the above cause, we have another which is not understood by physicians, and that is, a superabundance of action of the lungs, or, in other words, they have been compelled to labor too hard. That the machine may run well, all parts must be kept well oiled and properly balanced. Thus it is with the human system. God, whose hands so daintily fashioned this wonderful machine, has allotted to each organ a specific amount of labor, which, if properly and faithfully performed, will cause the machine to run smoothly and easily through life. But the moment one organ attempts to shirk its usual amount of labor upon a neighboring organ, that moment the harmony of the system is destroyed, and the organ, overtasked by its increased action, becomes, as a natural consequence, enfeebled, and, no longer able to perform even its ordinary amount of work, falls into decay.

Suppose, for instance, that the action of the heart—the tiny seat of life—has become impaired, and instead of performing its customary amount of labor, it now performs only half as much as it should do—what is the result? In all cases where there is a lack of action in the liver, digestive organs and heart, the lungs are necessarily brought into powerful action, and are obliged to perform the work of their neighbors as well as their own proper functions.

The labor imposed upon the lungs is therefore greatly in excess of what it should be in a normal condition, producing irritation, inflammation, and ultimately ulceration, general prostration and consumption. In brief, the above are the causes that produce all cases of lung diseases, throat affections and catarrh. Now, the natural and proper treatment for the full and permanent cure of all such complaints is simple, safe and reliable. Instead of applying remedial agents to the lungs exclusively, we have by vast experience learned that other organs should be aroused to action at once, and be compelled to perform as much exertion as the lungs have been compelled to perform.

Prof. R. Leonidas Hamilton, M. D., having for many years given his whole time to the treatment and investigation of Chronic Diseases, more especially of the Liver and Blood, and having been long and favorably known in every State and Territory of the Union as the most skillful and successful physician in the cure of chronic diseases, being formerly Professor of Materia Medica, Therapeutics, Pharmacy, Medical Botany, and Diseases of Females and Children, in Central Medical College; also, Physican to the New-York College of Health and the Central City Hospital, &c., has placed opportunities within his reach of no mean importance, and have added largely to his skill and experience.

Remember, Prof. R. L. Hamilton is the only physician in the world that has made Liver, Lung, and Blood diseases a specialty for a whole lifetime, and the only one that has written a full and true theory of the origin and certain cure of such complaints. Prof. H. has now perfected a class of New Specific Remedies, that does not fail to cure, speedily and permanently, where the system has not entirely broken down.

Dear reader, if you have any or all the above-mentioned symptoms, Prof. Hamilton has remedies that will strike at the root of them as by magic. There is no such word as fail in his treatment. By them the Liver and Stomach are speedily changed to an active, healthy state, the appetite regulated and restored, blood and secretions thoroughly purified and enriched, and the whole system renovated and built up anew.

After having successfully treated over ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND CASES OF LIVER, LUNG AND BLOOD DISEASES throughout the United States and British North America, the people can have no excuse for doubting our skill and ability to cope with all diseases to which the human family are subject. THE NAME AND FAME OF PROFESSOR R. LEONIDAS HAMILTON, M. D., HAS BECOME A HOUSEHOLD WORD THROUGHOUT THIS CONTINENT, and the mere mention of his name is a sufficient guarantee that the public may place full confidence in its worth and reliability. By the new system of treatment adopted by PROF. HAMILTON, all chronic diseases are FULLY AND PERMANENTLY CURED, with more speed and certainty than any other known method. In a majority of cases, CURES ARE MADE IN ONE QUARTER THE TIME usually required by other systems, and also there is another advantage to be gained, which is of great benefit to the laboring classes, and that is, we use NO MINERAL OR POISON REMEDIES. Consequently, patients are in no danger of exposure, and need not be kept from work, or compelled to change diet or general habits of everyday life.

From the Troy Times, July 25, 1864.

PROF. R. L. HAMILTON.—We invite the particular attention of our readers to this distinguished physician. Prof. Hamilton is well known in this city and vicinity, where he has effected many wonderful and permanent cures. He presents a host of responsible testimonials from ladies and gentlemen upon whom he has operated with remarkable success. These must be convincing to all who may have been skeptical heretofore of the Professor's infallible remedies. The diseases which he treats have been thoroughly overcome by a steady and persistent use of his medicines, and we feel prepared to say that no case which he has taken hold of with any hope whatever of success, has been abandoned until a perfect cure was effected. The maladies over which he has attained such perfect control are consumption, diseases of the liver and lungs, catarrhal complaints, and all affections of the throat. These are the principal ones, the mastery of which has given him the great success he now enjoys. There are many other maladies as the testimonials will show, in the treatment of which Prof. Hamilton has been eminently successful. The testimony presented is the more convincing because it emanates from responsible parties. There is no humbug about it. They are genuine certificates, and corroborate to the fullest extent the experience of all who have ever placed themselves under Prof. H.'s treatment. His skill as a practicing physician has never been questioned, and as a proof of his popularity, he has been obliged to change his location in New-York City to more commodious apartments, in order to accommodate the crowds that throng to him for relief from the many "ills that flesh is heir to." The unlimited and unceasing success of Prof. Hamilton is the best guarantee of his skill as a physician, and of the efficacy and soundness of his medicines. The medical records of the country do not present an instance where real merit had been so nearly allied to the most flattering success. Prof. H. has made the study of the lungs and liver the business of a lifetime. He has solved the problem of their various changes and diseases with immense satisfaction, and appears before the public with a full and complete explanation both of the disease and its remedy. He will tell you whether your lungs or liver are diseased, and, if so, how badly. If you are beyond cure he will frankly tell you so. Confidence in his skill and medicines are, of course, essential to a perfect cure. And with such a multiplicity of testimonials to establish his reputation, and the past successful experience of the Professor in this vicinity, we would advise all who are afflicted with the diseases of which he is master, to visit Prof. Hamilton without delay, or write to him.

From the Boston Daily Traveller, Oct. 21, 1864.

HIDDEN MYSTERIES.—It may not be generally known, with the sudden and extreme changes which the atmosphere undergoes in this northern climate, at this season of the year, that the human system also experiences the most vital and important changes, and if the functions of the liver and digestive organs are not in a healthy and active condition, the blood loses its vitality and the system easily falls a prey to the ravages of consumption and decay. In this connection, we ask our readers—as they value life and health—to be sure and read the valuable essay, which we publish to-day from the pen of the highly celebrated and far-famed Prof. R. Leonidas Hamilton, M. D., of No. 546 Broadway, New-York, who is now doing more business than any other physician in that city, having made this class of complaints a specialty for a quarter of a century; and also having been a Medical Professor in one of our leading Medical Colleges for several years, places Prof. Hamilton in the front rank of his profession. One peculiarity of the Professor, is his ability to tell at a glance the seat, nature and curability of all chronic diseases, in which fact, we think, consists his most remarkable success in making the wonderful cures he performs. Therefore, our advice to the afflicted is, one and all, call upon Prof. R. L. Hamilton, or try him at once.

TAKE NOTICE.

All that wish for treatment or advice, please answer the following questions, by letter, and add any further information necessary to give me a full description of each case:

IN FACT, SOME OF THE BEST CURES I EVER MADE I HAVE PERFECTED IN CASES I NEVER SAW.

IMPORTANT AND RELIABLE.

NEW TESTIMONIALS

IN FAVOR OF PROF. R. LEONIDAS HAMILTON'S GREAT SUCCESS IN CURING CHRONIC DISEASES.

VERNON, Sussex Co., N. J.

R. L. HAMILTON, M. D.—Dear Sir: It is with pleasure that I communicate the result of the use of your medicines. When I first visited your office in New-York, I could scarcely walk from the cars before your door into the office, without exhaustion. With all your prestige as a successful physician, I had but little hope that you could cure me. There was nothing strange in this. Four years and four months had passed away, and during that period I had suffered constantly with chronic diarrhœa and piles. I had some of the best physicians, and used everything I heard of that I could procure, but all in vain. Why should I think that you could do more than others? But, Sir, justice and gratitude compel me to say, that after the use of your medicines for a few months, the result was a complete cure. I ceased the use of your medicine about the first of September, and had no return of diarrhœa until the twenty-fifth of January, 1864, and that attack I could trace to its cause; indeed, Sir, I cannot expect to be freed from liabilities to attacks of disease more than other men. I wish I had the voice of seven thunders, and could assemble the sick in the world, I would direct them to you, Sir, as one fully competent to heal, and whose generous and noble nature would not allow of exorbitant charges. Yours, truly.

Rev. GEO. H. JONES,
Of the Newark Annual Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Gravel Cured.

Mr. Geo. W. Vaughan, of Grand Rapids, Wood Co., Wis., writes: "In the Fall of 1852 I was taken with a severe affection of the kidney and bladder. My strength rapidly gave way to the ravages of my disease, until I was literally nothing but a walking shadow. For the first five years of my disease my water was of a cherry red color. At times substances the size of a bean, resembling clotted blood, would pass off, and at others something resembling coarse sand. My sufferings were well nigh intolerable. I had taken your medicine only two weeks, when I felt a decided change for the better. In four weeks I had so far regained my strength that I was able to engage in light work; and now (only two months since I commenced the use of your wonderful remedies) I consider myself a well man. It seems incredible, after suffering so long, and doctoring with so many physicians, and paying so much money, that I should be entirely cured in so short a time, and at such a trifling expense; yet such is the case, as all my friends and neighbors can testify. Your practice in this vicinity will be unlimited. Many are astonished at such a wonderful cure, and are daily applying to you for relief. Long may you live to bless your race!"

The above is a correct copy of the statement transmitted to us. It can be seen by calling at our office. Mr. Vaughan will be most happy to recommend us to any that doubt our ability to cure gravel and affections arising from diseases of the kidney and bladder.

Incontrovertible Testimony—The Case of Mrs. Palmer—A Complete and Perfect Cure.

Mrs. L. H. Palmer, of Bedford, Hillsboro County, N. H., in a series of letters under different dates, gives a history of her case, which, as she says, "was so remarkable, that strangers went many miles to see her, the same as they would a great curiosity." "I seem (she writes) to have all the complaints a person can have and live. Indeed, I seem to live but to suffer. I have headache, sore throat, with a general disorganization of the system; am touched with a dry, tight cough, short breath, very costive; have night sweats, and at times afflicted with the piles, which are intolerably painful. Now I suffer with the cold, and again feel burning with heat. I have not had a menstrual discharge in fifteen months: have sharp running pains in my hips and kidneys, and my liver is apparently perfectly torpid and inactive." The medicines needed by Mrs. P. were at once forwarded; and the benefits derived from them is apparent from the following extract from one of her subsequent letters: "Although I had begun to be encouraged by the slight improvement, yet I felt that a crisis was coming—one which I dare not contemplate. You can imagine my agreeable surprise, when I passed the critical period with less pain than I ever felt in my life. From that time I began to improve rapidly; nature seems to have been aroused under the magical influence of your remedies; my strength returned; my mind appeared to be relieved of all melancholy, and again the pathway of life opened brightly before me. * * * Only last week I returned to my native place, from whence I was taken years ago on my bed, hardly expected by my friends to reach my journey's end alive. When my old acquaintances saw me returning comparatively well, they could hardly believe that such a miracle could be wrought by medicine; they say it seems "like one raised from the dead," to see me moving round again. As long as I live I shall be a walking advertisement of your truly wonderful healing powers. * * * Words cannot speak my gratitude. Once more I find happiness in living. If I ever succeed in accomplishing any good, I shall attribute it all to you.

A Wonderful Cure.

KINYRE, Winnebago County, Ill.

DR. HAMILTON: —My Dear Friend: Believing a statement of my case a benefit to the public, or more especially to those similarly diseased, I give you a full and complete history of my sufferings. I was taken sick at Camp Douglas, Chicago, (having volunteered in the 65th Illinois Vol. Infantry) with what the doctors called Pneumonia, or Lung Fever. I grew worse all the time until May, at which time I got a little better. On the 17th of the month, I received a furlough of ninety days to go home, after which time I was taken down more than ever; so I called Dr. R., of Rockford, Ill., a practicing physician, who examined me, and said my case was incurable, as my right lung was all gone, and he could do me no good whatever. I coughed and raised a quart of pus and matter in twenty-four hours. I could not rest night or day, but coughed all the time and sweat at nights, and in the morning would be dripping with perspiration, and was so weak I could not turn in the bed. I called some of the best physicians in our town, and county, but they all said they could do me no good. I grew worse all the time, and suffered more than pen or tongue can express. I, too, thought I could not get well, and so did all my friends. I was under the treatment of Dr. S. C., of Rockford, for seven months. He had other doctors come to see me, but they could do me no good. After suffering eighteen months in this way, the doctors declared they could do no more for me. I chanced to get hold of one of your papers from a friend, and I read it and concluded to try your remedies. But all of my friends told me it was of no use, and my doctors said "what humbugs and impostors you were." But against all their united influence I wrote to you in July, and you replied that my case indeed was very critical, but you thought you could (if it was the will of God to bless the means) cure me. You sent the medicine, and I used it as directed. I raised more pus than ever for a few days, after which time I was able to get out of bed and go out doors. I was a complete skeleton. I got weighed the first chance I could—having recruited some time—and my weight at that time was but 90 pounds. I now weigh 155 pounds, and my health is as good as ever, but do not feel quite as strong; yet I am going back to join my regiment and fight the rebels. Now, those doctors that gave me up to die, think my lungs are good yet; and if any of them doubt it, and want to run me a foot race, I am ready; and I will bet $5 that I can outrun any of them 40 or 80 rods, or a mile if they say so. And it is to you, Dr. Hamilton, I owe my life; for I heartily believe had I not begun your treatment, I would have been this day in my grave. I will ever remember you. May He "who doeth all things well" watch over and prosper thy hands in every good work for the restoration of suffering humanity. I sincerely advise all the sick, no matter how apparently hopeless their case may be, to apply to you; for I do believe, if their case is curable, you will, by the blessing of God (in whom you both put your trust), cure them. May God bless you both is my sincere prayer. NIEL WATSON.

A Remarkable Case.

It affords us pleasure to place before the public the following statement of Mrs. Jennie Duncan, a highly respectable lady residing at Bargettstown, Washington County, Penn. Such a testimonial, emanating from a source so worthy; is deserving of a careful perusal: "I not only claim it a privilege, but consider it a duty I owe my fellow-mortals, to tell them what the valuable remedies of Dr. HAMILTON have done for me. It is hoped that some doubting, suffering mortal will, through the perusal of this, be led to apply to those who deservedly rank "honorable as men and scientific as physicians." For some eight or ten years previous to April, 1862, I suffered severely from a pain in my back, underneath the right shoulder-blade, sometimes extending into the right side. When my side thus ached I could not bear an article of clothing fastened around me. I had headache constantly, palpitation of heart, and was so very nervous that a strange footstep, or an unusual noise, would startle me, and cause me to tremble like a leaf, my heart beating audibly. But the most horrible of all my sufferings was a smothering sensation—I could not get my breath. Oftentimes I have started from my bed and ran to an open window for relief. Indeed I was often afraid to lay my head upon the pillow lest I should smother. All the temporary relief I could get from this feeling was in being bled, and my blood was so thick and black that it would not run a drop unless placed in hot water. These, with many other ailments, rendered me truly a miserable being. During this time I was running up heavy bills with eminent physicians. I had swallowed enough medicine to fill one corner of a drug-store, (at least so it seemed to me.) My back was blistered, plastered, cupped, and cold water applied, until I was heartily tired of it. Yet the pain was there, and there it would stay. About this time I was handed a paper containing the theory of Professor Hamilton's new mode of treatment. It seemed reasonable, and was corroborated by so many "Testimonials" that, although discouraged, I was induced to try it. I sent them a statement of my case, and in due time received their terms and diagnosis of my case. I inclosed the requisite fee, and received a course of their treatment. Before I had been under it two weeks I was relieved. No palpitation of heart, no smothering sensation, no headache. Improved appetite, sweet and refreshing sleep. I advise, nay entreat, all those afflicted, especially those whose symptoms are similar to those enumerated in my case, to at once apply to Dr. Hamilton and get relief."

A Clergyman's Testimony.

Rev. J. Wesley Quinlan, (Troy Conference,) of Peru, Clinton county, N. Y.

"I am better in health this fall than I have been before in five years; my stomach is getting quite strong, my appetite is steady and powerful, my habits are twice as full as they used to be; instead of being all pinched up, I am getting to be quite corpulent; I have never worked so hard, or preached so much, as this fall; I have labored two months in a protracted meeting; preached most every night; some sixty souls converted! to God be all the praise. I shall have to write out a statement of my case one of these days, and the great benefit derived from your prescriptions; they have done more for me than all the remedies I ever took. In fact they are the only medicines that have benefited me.

Confidence not Misplaced—The Outpourings of a Truly Grateful Soul—Rehd and be Convinced.

Mrs. Caroline M. Romney, of Mantua, Portage County, Ohio, writes: "I placed great confidence in your medicines, and am not disappointed, for their effects are more than satisfactory. I have taken one-half the package you sent me, and am better in every respect. I think another small package will cure me. It seems almost incredible that your medicines should affect me so beneficially in such a short time. Would that I could sound your praise through the length and breadth of the land. May God bless you!"

Remarkable Testimony.

Mr. Sherman B. Allen, of Ossian, Ind., writes Prof. HAMILTON:

"With gratitude I place before the public my testimony in favor of your new remedies, having been confined to the house and to my bed most of the time for eighteen months, and finding no relief until after taking two courses of your delightful 'Liver and Blood' remedies. I can now ride in my carriage, and walk half a mile at a time; I urge upon all who may be suffering from a deranged state of the liver and digestive organs to consult Prof. Hamilton without delay, or it may be too late."

Dyspepsia and Constipation Cured.

Mr. S. S Parker, of Alabama, Genesee County, N. Y., writes:

"My wife has wholly recovered since using your medicines. Previous to applying to you she was unable to take the least food or drink, except corn starch and bread coffee. Her bowels would not move for eighteen days at a time, and then forced by the most unpleasant efforts. Since the third day after taking your medicines she has taken her ordinary meals of rationable food with very little inconvenience, and her bowels move regular and easy. Her feet and limbs, which previously required a jug of hot water, day and night, for a long time to keep them warm, are now warm enough of themselves. Her nervous debility, which was past endurance, is much better, and she once more enjoys her nights in sweet sleep. She sits up all day, whereas she was only moved from one bed to another, for making and change. May God bless and cause you to live long, and bless with your remedies the thousands of poor invalids that are suffering for want of proper medical treatment."

Another Case of Consumption Cured.

Mr. Wm. S. Blakeslee, of Windham Centre, Greene County, N. Y., writes, Jan. 10, 1863: "Five weeks ago my friends thought I was in the last stage of consumption. After taking your medicines for a few days, I began to feel much better, and am now able to be around and attend to my business. I anticipate a permanent cure. I owe everything to you for your great wisdom in treating this disease, that has hitherto been considered incurable."

An Editor and Postmaster Testifies.

Mr. Lewis Leslie, Postmaster at Oquaka, Henderson Co., Ill., and editor of the Oquaka Plaindealer, one of the most able and reliable journals in the Northwest, writes:

"I find your remedies all that could be desired. I never felt so well in my life, as last Summer, when using your medicines. I verily believe they have been the means of saving my life." I afterwards advertised in his paper. In the issue of June 11, 1863, in the local column, the editor thus refers to the advertisement: "See the advertisement of Prof. R. L. Hamilton, in another column. Read it! Believe whatever he says, and if you are troubled with a derangement of the liver, send to him for medicine. We know what we are recommending. We are personally known to the efficacious effects of the doctor's remedies. They are all that he claims for them. They are the best we ever knew, and his charges are moderate."

I Have told the Truth.

Wm. McStrong, of North Manchester, Conn., writes: "I am in possession of your circular, in which you propose to cure epilepsy or fits. You have certificates of several persons cured. I wrote to Mr. Freeman, of Detroit, N. Y., in reference to the validity of the statement published by you. He at once answered me, stating the case was as reported, and had proved permanent, there having been no return of the fits up to the present time."

Emphatic Testimony.

J. B. Watson, of Denmark, Me., writes: "The medicine for my sister came to hand in due time, for which you have my thousand thanks. My sister took the remedies as directed and got well, for which she feels most grateful. I have so much faith in you that I believe your remedies will cure almost any disease. * * * * * * * * * Many of my friends and acquaintance have been cured by you medicines. That's so."

Another Case of Consumption Cured.

Caleb B. Heath, a well-known citizen of Glen's Falls, N. Y., writes: "I was afflicted with a very severe cough, which was rapidly undermining my health and weakening my lungs, and was so failing that my friends began to think my recovery doubtful, having tried several kinds of remedies without relief. By the recommendation of a friend I was induced to try your treatment. I did so, and with pleasure can inform you that one course completed the cure. I consider your remedies invaluable, and do not feel disposed to be without a supply on hand."

Catarrh, Liver and Kidney Disease Cured. The Testimony of a Postmaster.

W. Stearns, Esq., Postmaster at West Braintree, Vt., writes:

"I have taken all the medicines you sent me; the pain in my heart and left side has left me; I feel like a new man. There was almost everything ailed me when I commenced taking your medicines, viz.: Catarrh, Liver and Kidney complaint. I am feeling so well that I do not know whether you think it necessary for me to take any more medicines or not. Your medicines, thus far, have proved the right sort for me."

Saved His Life.

Mr. Jacob C. Mateer, of Shellsburgh, Benton County, Iowa, writes: "This is to inform you that I am doing all I can for you in circulating the papers you sent me among the sick, and think it no hardship to spread your fame, and the wonderful cures you have performed, throughout the land, for I was at your mercy and you saved my life; and, therefore, if there is anything I can do for you, it will be done with the greatest pleasure. I want you to send me all the circulars and papers you can to distribute among the sick about here, May God give you a long life on earth."

Piles, Fistula and Female Complaints Cured.

Mrs. Phœbe Cunard, West Greenville, Mercer County, Penn., writes: "I now seat myself to let you know how I am getting along. I find my health greatly improved. The last remedies that you sent had a very good effect; I now have no 'Piles,' no 'Fistula,' no 'Female Complaints,' as I had before taking your medicines; all have vanished, while my nerves are much stronger, and I am constrained to believe that you can do all you promise, and I hope that God will reward you in time and through eternity."

Extract from a letter written by Mrs. Elizabeth Cole, of Cassville, Monogahela County, W. Va.: "I write to inform you that my two daughters are about cured; I think they need no more medicine, for they are now enabled to do as much work as ever. I feel very thankful for your beneficent power for the good of mankind, and may God assist you in your noble works, and when we are done with this world, may we meet in Heaven, where we can rest from all our labors. May God bless you is my earnest prayer."

Strong Talk! Read this and be Convinced.

Mrs. Eliza Milliroy, of Cranberry, Venango Co., Penn., writes:

"Dear Doctor: I have used your medicine as directed, and am astonished at the wonderful cure it has performed in my case. Language is inadequate to express my sufferings before I commenced taking your medicine, and after suffering twenty-five years, I am now comparatively well. I attribute my very existence to your great professional skill—indeed, I owe you a debt of gratitude that I can never pay. I am prepared to say to the sick and afflicted, apply to Dr. Hamilton, and he will give you comfort. In saying this, from experience, I know whereof I affirm. May Heaven's best blessings ever be showered upon the greatest benefactor of his race—Prof. R. Leonidas Hamilton. ELIZA MILLROY."

Important Testimony from Hon. F. James Fitch, one of the most Popular and Celebrated of Judges in the State, in Favor of Prof. Hamilton and his Unparalleled Treatment of Diseases.

CATSKILL, GREENE COUNTY, N. Y.

Having long and favorably known Prof. R. Leonidas Hamilton, M. D., (formerly a partner in the practice of medicine with a brother of mine,) it gives me pleasure to recommend him as a learned and skillful physician. He has, by means of his new theories and remedies, been eminently successful in the treatment of all liver, blood and other chronic diseases of a lingering and obstinate character. Dr. H. is a man perfectly reliable, and of strict integrity. F. JAMES FITCH,
County Judge of Greene County.

A Very Critical Case Cured.

Mr. H. F. Dopge, of Newfane, Niagara county, N.Y., writes:

"I have just received a package of your papers, i.e., the N. Y. Atlas, and am very much pleased, as I feel anxious and consider it my duty to distribute and make known the great benefits derived by the use of your remedies, for God knows I feel thankful for the changes in my case, it being a very critical one, as you will recollect from my symptoms, and it will have great influence upon the minds of my friends, and the public generally, in this vicinity."

A Supposed Impossibility.

Mr. H. B. Herrick, of Russelsburgh, Pa., writes: "The medicine last ordered came to hand in due season, and I have used as directed, and it has done that which I never supposed medicine could do. I have accomplished more work than I have in the same length of time for six years previous to applying to you; I consider myself cured."

A Clincher.

Hon. J. B. Olney, Esq., Dist. Attorney of Greene County, N. Y., and one of the most staunch and eminent lawyers in this country, comes forward and places his testimony upon record gratuitously, in appreciation of the great and lasting benefit he has received from Prof. Hamilton's treatment.

"HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE."—In accordance with this sentiment, allow me to add my evidence to the many thousands that are showered gratuitously upon Prof. R. Leonidas Hamilton, M. D., from all sections of the country, in appreciation of his eminent and superior abilities and qualifications in the speedy and safe removal of diseases of the Liver and Blood, and other hitherto considered incurable ailments, by the use of his new and improved theory and remedies. Having myself been successfully treated by him for a scrofulous affection of the blood, which he quickly removed after all other treatment had utterly failed.

After having treated, with the most unparalleled success, over twenty thousand patients, afflicted with chronic or lingering diseases, within a short period of time, it can be no longer denied that his theory and remedies are the only ones that should be generally adopted.

It further gives me great pleasure to assure the afflicted public that in Prof. Hamilton they have a true friend—one in whom they can place the most unbounded confidence in skill, exemplary character and honesty of purpose. JAMES B. OLNEY.

Hear what the Celebrated Dr. Thomas Fitch says of Prof. R. Leonidas Hamilton's Great Success in Curing all Diseases.

Hear him!

PRATTSVILLE, N. Y

I am glad of an opportunity to place before the public my testimony in favor of Dr. R. L. Hamilton, and having formerly been associated with him in the practice of our profession, I can speak as "one having authority." His skill in the treatment of all chronic diseases, of whatever name or nature, is unsurpassed. His theory is correct; his combinations of medicines scientific, and his skill in adapting them to each particular case, truly wonderful. None need despair, unless afflicted with organic diseases that are utterly incurable. He is a man of honor and strict integrity, and every way worthy of the confidence of the afflicted public.

THOMAS FITCH, M. D.

The Testimony of a Physician—A Most Remarkable Cure.

A lady has a snake in her stomach, causing fits. She is cured, and the snake removed. Dr. L. W. Feuner, Plainwell, Alleghan County, Mich., writes:

DEAR DOCTOR: I am happy to say that you were right in your conjecture that the young lady's fits were caused by worms or some foreign substance in the stomach. It proved to be a small SNAKE. After using your medicine, prepared for its removal, for a few days, the snake was expelled without serious results or any unnatural effects. Since that time she has not had a fit or any symptoms. She has improved in strength and flesh rapidly, and is now, seemingly, well. She desires me to make known her grateful feelings for relieving her of this horrible disease, produced, as it was, by so unnatural a cause. I consider it one of the most remarkable cures on record. I will be greatly obliged if you will reply at length to this letter, and state to me what there was in the symptoms I gave you that led you to suppose the true cause—that there were worms, or something of the kind, that caused the fits. I am using several of your different specifics in my practice, and the result of their use has, in all cases thus far treated, been entirely satisfactory. I think your Blood and Liver Pills the best in use. If you will give me a recipe for preparing them, I will endeavor to benefit you as much in some other way. Very truly yours,
